Federal Judges Urged To Favor State In Issue

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Louisiana Attorney General Jack Gremillion told three federal judges Friday if they decide against the state in a school segregation case, "then you had better get ready to get into the business of running a school system."

Judge John Minor Wisdom of the U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals and federal District Judges Herbert Christenberry and J. Skelley Wright listened to oral arguments for nearly three hours, then took the case under advisement. The court allowed 10 days for supplemental briefs.

The case involves rural St. Helena Parish, about 60 miles north of New Orleans, and the decision of its voters last spring to close public schools rather than desegregate them.

Judge Wright some months ago ordered desegregation of St. Helena schools, but set no date.

An act passed by the Louisiana Legislature last year in an extraordinary session permitted local school boards and the electorate of individual parishes to close public schools. In their place would be private, segregated schools with pupils drawing grants in aid from the state.

Gremillion led a troop of attorneys representing Louisiana. Deputy Asst. Atty. Gen. Freeman Leverett of Georgia and Asst. Atty. Gen. Gordon Madison of Alabama also acted as Gremillion's advisors.

Negro attorney A. P. Tureaud Sr. of New Orleans, his son and Jack Greenberg, a white attorney from NAACP headquarters in New York, formed the opposition.

U. S. Atty. M. Hepburn Many represented the government, invited as a "friend of the court" into the case.

Greenberg argued that the law permitting the closing of schools was unconstitutional on its face.

Italians Used For New Shot

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—An Italian crew launched late Friday the U. S. Air Force Jupiter intermediate range missile, one of the top "guns" in the NATO arsenal.

An Air Force announcement said the shot "was successful."

The 39-foot operational model of the army-developed Jupiter was scheduled to go 1,500 miles into the Atlantic.

The shot, at 8:19 p.m. EDT, appeared to be perfect. Its flaming tail could be seen for more than five minutes in the early evening sky.

Earlier in the day, a U. S. Air Force tactical crew fired the first operational model of the air-breathing, winged Mace, using a simulated silo.

The Mace went on a "roller coaster" course for about 1,000 miles, using an all-inertial guidance system into which enemy targets can be fed ahead of launching.

Italian crews have been in the United States almost a year getting experience in handling control and firing operations for Jupiter.

This was the second firing here by the Italians, who are members of the 36th aerobrigade Jupiter missile group, a vital link in the Italian armed forces assigned to NATO. The group has had operational Jupiters for several months.

Purpose of the test Friday night was to give the NATO forces more experience in the Jupiter weapons system and in use of the ground support equipment.

Armed Agents Arrest Marine

LOUISVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Spearheaded by an armored car, more than 100 policemen and FBI agents smashed their way into the estate Friday and seized religious leader John R. Harrell, 16 of his followers and a young Marine deserter he had granted refuge.

No shots were fired in the pre-dawn raid, which came after two days of unsuccessful efforts to talk the Marine into returning to Camp Lejeune, N.C. He was declared a deserter May 29.

Officers confiscated rifles, side arms and ammunition on the carefully groomed, 100-acre estate of Harrell, silver-haired founder of a religious sect and an anti-Communist school.

Harrell and his small band were charged with harboring a deserter from the Marine Corps, slightly built Dion Davis, 18.

Senate Votes Record High Peace Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—Forging $1 billion beyond President Kennedy's requests, the Senate voted unanimously Friday for a record peacetime defense budget of $46.3 billion.

An 85-0 roll call sent the money bill to the House which had voted $42-plus billion well before Kennedy called to days ago for a $3.5-billion spending boost in the face of fresh Communist threats to West Berlin.

The Senate added about $1 billion to the President did not ask for his program of strengthening U. S. conventional, ground warfare forces. This pushed the Senate-approved total about $4 billion above that of the House.

The House, however, is expected to go along promptly with the added $1 billion, largely for more bombers, although the administration may refuse to spend the money.

Biggest single, unasked addition is $525 million to continue production of B52 jet bombers which Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has said he doesn't need. The Senate also added $225 million to the $200 million the House voted for development of the 2,000 m.p.h. B70 bomber which the administration feels could not become an effective weapon before missile systems are perfected.

Other increases are largely for expansion of National Guard and reserve units.

Friday's action left only one more congressional step for enactment of the emergency program.

AT FREEDOM FORUM

International Red Conspiracy Noted

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

Several hundred West Monrovia, attending the city's first Freedom Forum Friday night, probably got a good scare, among other things, but almost certainly they took home an improved understanding of international communism and its plans for the Americas.

Three films were shown, one of them the controversial "Operation Abolition" depicting the much-publicized San Francisco students riots of May, 1960, in which demonstrators wrought chaos at a hearing of the House Un-American Activities Committee.

"Communist Encirclement," a graphic account of communist plans for world domination, showing their development since inception, also seemed popular with the audience.

"The Two Berlins," a documentary revelation of the problems facing a divided modern day Germany and how those problems came to be, many of them the result of American actions at the close of World War II, according to the film, wound out the film program.

Howard Bennett, vice president of the National Education Program at Harding College in Searcy, Ark., spoke briefly at the beginning of the program and outlined the significance of the films.

Court Action Being Pushed On Hijackers

Grand Jury To Meet Monday For Fast Trial

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Federal authorities moved quickly Friday to bring a man who doesn't want to be an American any more and his teen-aged son into court for hijacking a jet airliner.

The pair said they wanted to force the pilot to fly the $5-million Continental Airlines Boeing 707 into Cuba.

U. S. Judge R. E. Thomson ordered a special grand jury convened Monday to determine whether to indict Leon Bearden, 38, and his son, Cody, 16.

Federal authorities who questioned the pair at great length, but would not permit use of their names, said of the elder Bearden, "He just doesn't want to be an American any more."

"He wanted to take his family to Cuba. In his mind, there was only one way to get to Cuba, and hijacking the airliner was it."

The elder Bearden's wife and friends in his home town of Coolidge, Ariz., described him as "a good family man."

The Bearden drew a .45 automatic pistol and a .38 revolver shortly before 2 a.m. Thursday and commandeered the Los Angeles-to-Houston plane.

Aboard were 67 passengers, including the Bearden, and six crew members, two of whom were hostages.

The pilot, Capt. B. D. Rickards, persuaded the hijackers that the plane must set down at El Paso, a scheduled stop, for fuel.

The hijackers allowed most of the passengers to disembark, but held the crew and four passengers as hostages.

Riders In Custody At Shreveport

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—The first "Freedom Riders" to be arrested in Louisiana were taken into custody at a Shreveport bus depot Friday after they tried to integrate a white waiting room.

There were no incidents. The four, all Shreveport Negroes had tickets on a bus to Jackson, Miss. A few minutes later, two other Negroes who drove the quartet to the terminal were also arrested.

All six were charged with disturbing the peace. They were scheduled to be arraigned Tuesday in Caddo Parish district court.

The four would-be travelers were identified as:

Rev. Harold Lee Bethune, 34; Leverett H. Taylor, 20, a student at Grambling (Negro) College; Dolores McGinnis, 19, graduate of Notre Dame High School; and Marie McGinnis, 17, a student at the school. All said they are unemployed.

The two who drove them to the depot were David James Dennis, 20, a leader of the Congress on Racial Equality and Rev. Harry Blake, 26, an official of the pro-integration Southern Christian Leadership Council.

Dennis was in the first group of riders to go to Jackson on May 24. He was given a suspended sentence and fined $300.

Hope Boosted For Peaceful Negotiations

Moderate Tone Offered In New Note From Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. officials found a comparatively moderate tone Friday in the new Soviet note on Berlin, increasing hope for peaceful negotiations with Moscow on the potentially explosive issue.

In a separate development, the U. S. government ruled out for the time being a clampdown on trade with the Soviet bloc in reprisal for Red pressures on Berlin.

A State Department announcement said "we do not believe that our interests or the cause of world peace would be served at this time" by economic retaliation. But it added the United States and its allies may have to reconsider if the Soviet Union continues its "threatening attitude."

The 13-page Soviet note was under close study both in Washington and in Paris where Secretary of State Dean Rusk is attending a Western Big Four foreign ministers meeting on the German problem.

The Soviet Union replied to a July 17 group of notes. In these the Western powers declared their intention to stand firm on Berlin and accused the Reds of endangering peace, but held the door open for discussions.

The Moscow communication restated Premier Khrushchev's determination to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany. This, the Russians said again, will wipe out the West's occupation rights in Communist-surrounded West Berlin.

U. S. authorities saw nothing basically new in the Moscow document. But U. S. experts did detect what they described as a milder overall tone in the Soviet warning than in some language used in the past.

It was this aspect which interested the U. S. diplomats most, since the aim of Rusk and the other foreign ministers—besides strengthening Berlin preparedness—is to find a way out of the dangerous situation without fighting.

The Soviet note said, "The Soviet government declares anew it is ready for negotiations which (Continued On Page Two-A)

LaSalle Banker Dies; Services Slated Today

Thomas Sim Butler, 67, president of the LaSalle State Bank of Jena and Tullis, died at 3:30 a.m. Friday at his home in Jena after an illness of several weeks. He was the father of a West Monroe woman.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 3 p.m. at the Nolley Memorial Methodist Church of Jena, with the Rev. A. G. Taylor and the Rev. John Sewell officiating.

Burial will be in Nolley Memorial Cemetery under direction of Kinner and Stevens Funeral Home.

Mr. Butler, who was also a civic leader, was born at Summerville near Jena and lived in LaSalle Parish all his life. He had served as president of the LaSalle State Bank since 1940. He was vice president of the LaSalle Telephone Company for the past 12 years, a member of the Official Board of the Nolley Methodist Church and a Mason.

Partly Cloudy, Warm Predicted

The weatherman produced a uninspiring forecast for today with nothing in it to indicate a change from the hot and humid days we have experienced this week.

The outlook in the Twin Cities today includes partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures. It also mentioned scattered thundershowers. The high is expected to range between 86 and 92 degrees.

Tonight's overnight low will be in the upper 70's.

Yesterday's high reading was a slightly cooler 92 with the low recorded at 73.

Space Agency To Improve Materials

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—The government's space agency is looking for improved materials having "charcoal and mothball action" to build better heat shields for manned interplanetary space ships.

This was related Friday by Dr. Leonard Roberts of the agency's Langley (Va.) Research Center.

He is one of the world's pioneers in developing concepts for enabling space craft to withstand the fiery plunge of re-entering the earth's atmosphere—and keep spacemen in the cabin at room temperature even though inferno-like heat of thousands of degrees may prevail just inches away from them.

Roberts told a conference of American and Canadian space scientists that the United States' first manned space craft — the Mercury astronaut capsule — has a heat shield made of materials that provide a double-barreled protection against re-entry heat in this way:

1. The shield is partly made of a fiberglass material which becomes charred when exposed to high heat — just like charcoal forms on wood. And this charred material serves as a radiator to reflect much of the heat away.

2. Impregnated through the fiberglass is another material — a resinous substance that is a chemical cousin of the nylon in (Continued On Page Two-A)

'SPIES IN SKY ...'

Halaby Requests Hijacking Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration asked Congress Friday to meet the menace of "air drunks, flying fools, and spies in the sky" by passing a law to make airline hijacking punishable by life imprisonment.

This would put airline hijacking in the same class of crime as piracy on the high seas.

The administration views were presented to Congress by Najeb E. Halaby, the federal Aviation Agency administrator.

He opened hearings of the Senate Aviation Subcommittee by testifying that the proposed legislation would bring the President, the FBI, the Border Patrol, the FAA, and other federal agencies into the battle against hijackers.

Citing Thursday's hijacking in El Paso, Tex., Halaby said that, if Congress passes the new law, he longer would "be defenseless, a preoccupied crew, or local police" be the only barriers against would-be hijackers.

At present, no federal law covers such hijacking. Leon Bearden, 38, and his son, Cody, 16, arrested in El Paso Thursday, were charged with violating the federal kidnapping law.

It also is difficult to charge hijackers under state law, like those covering assault. For one thing, it is very hard to figure out where the plane was flying when the crime was committed.

For another, the arrested man likely would land in a state different from the one in which he committed his crime, making extradition action necessary.

This should not deter advancing tendencies. Rather, periods of hesitation will result in consolidation. (Continued On Page Two-A)

SMILING, FEELS FINE Area Boy Survives Deadly Coral's Bite

By WILEY HILBURN
World Staff Writer

A doctor here surveyed a sun-browned, husky-looking youth of 14, then turned to a jar containing a dead rather small red and black colored snake.

"Boy," said the physician, with a smile, "you are supposed to be dead!"

Paul David Spurlock of Downsville, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Spurlock, had been bitten early Friday morning by the coral snake, a reptile infinitely more deadly than the rattlesnake.

Last night in a local hospital he was smiling, still feeling fine without even a headache to show for his brush with death.

Spurlock, a crew-cut, relaxed young man, tells it this way. He had been out in the hot sun, picking butterbeans. His container full, he dumped the butterbeans into a tub. At the same (Continued On Page Two-A)

$7-Million Plan To Be Put To Board

A $7-million bond issue for a major expansion program will be proposed to the Ouachita Parish School Board at its next meeting, president Charles G. Wall Jr. disclosed yesterday.

I want to emphasize plainly that this is merely the recommendation of two of our committees after surveys," Wall said.

The committees, made up by a majority of the board members, met Thursday night after conducting studies joined by an additional survey conducted by the Department of Education.

"The department's survey proved to be approximately the same as ours," Wall explained.

TO ASK VOTE

He said the committees—the building committee and the school building and driveways committee—would recommend that the board call at $7-million bond issue.

Wall said the proposal would be made at the board's August 15th session.

Following are the projects to be recommended:

1. Construction of a new elementary school and junior high school on board property on Nutland Road.
2. A complete renovation and maintenance of all school buildings.
3. Construction of a new junior high school and elementary school in the Riser Subdivision in West Monroe.
4. Additional classrooms for West Monroe High School and Ouachita Parish High School in the future.

2-Year-Old Child Dies In Mishap

WINNSBORO (Special)—Jimmy Gwin, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Gwin of Winnsboro, Star Route, was killed instantly around 3:45 p.m. Friday at the home of his grandparents when he fell underneath the whirling blade of a weed-cutting device.

The device on which he had been playing, a bush hog, was pulled by a tractor which had been set in motion accidentally by playmates moments before his death.

The incident occurred at the home of young Jimmy's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Gwin Sr., about a mile from Winnsboro on the Lone Cedar Road.

According to members of the family, the elder Gwin and his daughter, Carolyn, had taken a group of grandchildren for a ride on the tractor earlier in the day. Gwin reportedly stopped the machine in a pasture near the fence of his yard and went into the back yard to shell peas with other members of the family.

Partly Cloudy, Warm Predicted

The weatherman produced a uninspiring forecast for today with nothing in it to indicate a change from the hot and humid days we have experienced this week.

The outlook in the Twin Cities today includes partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures. It also mentioned scattered thundershowers. The high is expected to range between 86 and 92 degrees.

Tonight's overnight low will be in the upper 70's.

Yesterday's high reading was a slightly cooler 92 with the low recorded at 73.

FEDERAL OFFICERS unload rifles and ammunition seized Friday in a raid on the Louisville, Ill., estate of religious leader John R. Harrell, 38, charged along with 16 of his followers with harboring a deserter from the Marine Corps. No shots were fired in the raid, although some of those arrested were armed, police said. Harrell said he runs a sporting goods business and that accounts for the rifles and ammunition on the estate. (AP Wirephoto)

Space Agency To Improve Materials

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—The government's space agency is looking for improved materials having "charcoal" and mothball action to build better heat shields for manned interplanetary space ships.

'SPIES IN SKY ...'

Halaby Requests Hijacking Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration asked Congress Friday to meet the menace of "air drunks, flying fools, and spies in the sky" by passing a law to make airline hijacking punishable by life imprisonment.

This would put airline hijacking in the same class of crime as piracy on the high seas. The administration views were presented to Congress by Najeeb E. Halaby, the federal Aviation Agency administrator.

He opened hearings of the Senate Aviation Subcommittee by testifying that the proposed legislation would bring the President, the FBI, the Border Patrol, the FAA, and other federal agencies into the battle against hijackers.

Citing Thursday's hijacking in El Paso, Tex., Halaby said that, if Congress passes the new law, no longer would "a defenseless girl, a preoccupied crew, or local police" be the only barriers against would-be hijackers.

At present, no federal law covers such hijacking. Leon Bearden, 38, and his son, Cody, 16, arrested in El Paso Thursday, were charged with violating the federal kidnapping law.

It also is difficult to charge hijackers under state law, like those covering assault. For one thing, it is very hard to figure out where the plane was flying when the crime was committed.

For another, the arrested man likely would land in a state different from the one in which he committed his crime, making extradition action necessary.

SMILING, FEELS FINE

Area Boy Survives Deadly Coral's Bite

By WILEY HILBURN World Staff Writer

A doctor here surveyed a sun-browned, husky-looking youth of 14 then turned to a jar containing a dead rather small red and black colored snake.

"Boy," said the physician, without humor, "you are supposed to be dead!"

Paul David Spurlock of Downs-ville, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Spurlock, had been bitten early Friday morning by the coral snake, a reptile infinitely more deadly than the rattlesnake.

Last night in a local hospital he was smiling, still feeling fine without even a headache to show for his brush with death.

Spurlock, a crew-cut, relaxed young man, tells it this way. He had been out in the hot sun picking butterbeans. His container full, he dumped the butterbeans into a tub. At the same time Paul heard his dog barking out in the road.

Investigating, Paul found his dog prancing around a small harmless-looking snake, perhaps nearly a foot long. Picking up a stick, the teenager came down on the reptile hard twice. The snake lay still.

Paul reached down to pick the reptile up. Suddenly the snake flicked out, marking the youth on a finger of his left hand. Rather unconcerned, Paul finished off with a couple more blows, picked it up and headed for his house to show the prize to his mother and father.

Mr. Spurlock recognized the reptile for what it was—a deadly coral snake.

Paul was rushed to Farmerville, then to a Monroe hospital. There was no anti-coral serum here, so Superior Airlines agreed

$7-Million Plan To Be Put To Board

By SAM HANNA World Staff Writer

A $7-million bond issue for a major expansion program will be proposed to the Ouachita Parish School Board at its next meeting, president Charles G. Wall Jr. disclosed yesterday.

"I want to emphasize plainly that this is merely the recommendation of two of our committees after surveys," Wall said.

The committees, made up by a majority of the board members, met Thursday night after conducting studies, joined by an additional survey conducted by the Department of Education.

"The department's survey proved to be approximately the same as ours," Wall explained.

TO ASK VOTE

He said the committees — the building committee and the school building and driveways committee — would recommend that the board call at $7-million bond issue.

Wall said the proposal would be made at the board's August 15th session.

Following are the projects to be recommended:

1. Construction of a new elementary school and junior high school on board property on Nutland Road.
2. A complete renovation and maintenance of all school buildings.
3. Construction of a new junior high school and elementary school in the Riser Subdivision in West Monroe.
4. Additional classrooms for West Monroe High School and Ouachita Parish High School in the future.
5. Double the size of Drew School, including a new cafeteria on Arkansas Road.
6. Double the size of Claiborne School.
7. Construction of a track at

2-Year-Old Child Dies In Mishap

WINNSBORO (Special)—Jimmy Gwin, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Gwin of Winnsboro, Star Route, was killed instantly around 3:45 p.m. Friday at the home of his grandparents when he fell underneath the whirling blade of a weed-cutting device.

The device on which he had been playing, a bush hog, was pulled by a tractor which had been set in motion accidentally by playmates moments before his death.

The incident occurred at the home of young Jimmy's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Gwin Sr., about a mile from Winnsboro on the Lone Cedar Road.

According to members of the family, the elder Gwin and his daughter, Carolyn, had taken a group of grandchildren for a ride on the tractor earlier in the day. Gwin reportedly stopped the machine in a pasture near the fence of his yard and went into the back yard to shell peas with other members of the family.

Meantime, eight of the children played on the machinery, including the tractor, which was in re-

Federal Judges Urged To Favor State In Issue

high on his forehead, took issue with Greenberg when the New Yorker inferred the state had a "substantial burden" to furnish public education.

The case attacked the law as unconstitutional in that it (1) denied equal protection of the law to those in the local areas and (2) denied them due process of law.

Gremlion and other state attorneys blasted back at this notion, claiming public education was a privilege and not a right. It was in the state's domain, they said, to substitute private schools for the public school system "as long as we treat everyone alike."

State attorneys also maintained that education at the local (parish or city) level was not a function of the state. The state, they said, merely acts in a supervisory capacity.

Schools, teachers salaries and other school items, they said, came from taxes authorized by the local electorate.

Wisdom frequently asked just what portion the state paid of monies used to run parish school systems. He estimated that nearly $1 million, or perhaps more, came from the state to St. Helena for its schools. This, Wisdom said, would run close to 95 per cent of operational monies, and perhaps higher.

In his preface argument, Gremlion told the court that if the tribunal holds "that a state must furnish public education by the method of a public school system, then it would be setting itself up as supervisors or administrators of such a system."

The court, he added, would be powerless to impose taxes or raise other money to operate such a system.

"For the court to undertake this function," he said, "would result in a hopeless situation."

Gremlion also argued that previous courts in school segregation cases have been unable to find "that the United States Constitution provides that states shall provide a system of free education."

Gremlion and Wisdom swapped words at a staccato rate for a few minutes before Gremlion took a deep breath and drew a laugh from the jammed courtroom when he told Wisdom:

"You made me forget what I wanted to say."

Asst. Atty. Gen. William Schular of Louisiana defended the state's announced plan from attack under the equal protection clause of the constitution.

The state, he said, has no statewide system of education. The state board of education, he said, merely certifies school teachers and other non-operational items.

"I'm sure Mr. (Supt. of Education Shelby) Jackson will be surprised when he finds out just how limited his powers are," Wisdom shot back.

net nevertheless voiced optimism at our chances.

"There has been a change just in the past six months," he said, "in public awareness of the communist menace."

He called those present living proof of his statement.

"Once the people learn the facts, something can be done."

With a long background in American industry and once known as the "Dean" of industrial political and economic education, Bennett viewed the economy as a likely and vulnerable spot for communist attack.

He urged sane fiscal policies and defense of the currency as counter-measures, along with a general awakening among our workers to the dangers of profligacy.

Speaking of a gradual eroding of our freedoms in the past 30 years, Bennett outlined the route of the communist march in this country.

"They started in our schools," he said, "then went to our churches, moved into our political and social affairs, and now threaten our economy."

The National Education Program with which the former top General Electric production executive and political educator has served since his retirement in 1947, dates back to its founding, in 1937, by its current president, Dr. George Benson.

The idea of the Freedom Forum, according to Bennett, is a product of Harding College and the National Education Program. The first such program was conducted on the college campus in 1948 and since "has grown almost into an institution across the United States."

Bennett called the apparently increasing violence in this country, such as that seen in "Operation Abolition," a part of the "communist master plan."

He likened it to similar methods used elsewhere in the world where the "Reds" first infiltrate, then seemingly conciliate and accept a coalition government, and finally take over.

The same thing has occurred, recently, Bennett said, in Cuba, and now is happening in Laos.

A raft of Fifth Congressional District municipal officials including delegates from Rayville, Delhi and Columbia, were introduced by master of ceremonies Eugene Smith, manager of the West Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce, were sponsors of the program.

Mayors Roy Snider of Delhi and John W. Brockner of Columbia also were present with several of their aldermen.

Earlier in the evening, Monroe Mayor W. L. "Jack" Howard spoke in defense of his idea for a conference of Southern municipal officials, now a reality and slated for Memphis, Tenn.

"We need such an organization," Howard said, "to study proposed bills in the light of their effect on the Southern way of life, the Constitution and the national economy. Purpose of that study, he said, would be to alert the public to the benefits or damage that legislation would cause. He prodded the South to rise and rally the rest of the nation in the preservation of Constitutional principles.

"Stand up and be counted," he said. "Unless we put some backbone in our elected representatives, many of these destructive bills proposed by the administration will be passed."

Citing a report from a Washington source, Howard declared, "Many of them cannot make it without Southern support. We can roll over and play dead if we want to."

Court Action Being Pushed On Hijackers

landing gear tires so the plane could not take off again.

Nine hours after landing, border patrolman Leonard W. Gilman, 48, a passenger-hostage slugged the father, FBI agent Francis Crosby, aboard to negotiate, overpowered the son.

The hijacking brought new outcries from Congress for action against Cuba and its prime minister, Fidel Castro. But there was no evidence Cuba had anything to do with the hijacking.

The Federal Aviation Agency issued orders allowing plane crewmen to arm themselves—a move not approved by all airlines or crew spokesmen.

Congress rushed to pass legislation providing life imprisonment for persons hijacking planes.

FFA Administrator Najeeb E. Halaby told a Senate committee legislation is needed to meet the menace of "air drunks, flying fools and spies in the sky."

Halaby said there also is the problem of the "airborne subversive, the spy in the sky," who may hijack a plane at the bidding of a foreign government or under a compulsion to humiliate the United States.

In this regard, Halaby said the government has no positive evidence of any connection between Thursday's hijacking and Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuban regime.

Leonard Gilman, the Border Patrol officer credited with capturing Bearden, testified that the man had told him, "This was not a political conspiracy, he had no conversations with Castro, and merely wanted transportation on the airplane he hijacked."

Nevertheless, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told the Senate, "I don't swallow any explanation that this hijacking had no identity with this festering sore some 90 miles off our own shore."

He said he could not accept the idea that a "two-bit petty criminal" would hijack a $5-million jet airliner simply on "a great urge to go to Cuba."

Halaby Requests Hijacking Law

H. Warner, general counsel of the Civil Aeronautics Board, told the subcommittee: "Under present conditions of high speed air transportation, state criminal laws are no longer adequate as a deterrent to crimes on board aircraft."

Halaby, discussing the recent series of hijackings, said the last three cases evidently were carried out by foolish men who felt by some "heroic act they could make some progress in their individual lives — psychopathic as they may be."

Halaby said there also is the problem of the "airborne subversive, the spy in the sky," who may hijack a plane at the bidding of a foreign government or under a compulsion to humiliate the United States.

In this regard, Halaby said the government has no positive evidence of any connection between Thursday's hijacking and Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuban regime.

Leonard Gilman, the Border Patrol officer credited with capturing Bearden, testified that the man had told him, "This was not a political conspiracy, he had no conversations with Castro, and merely wanted transportation on the airplane he hijacked."

Nevertheless, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told the Senate, "I don't swallow any explanation that this hijacking had no identity with this festering sore some 90 miles off our own shore."

He said he could not accept the idea that a "two-bit petty criminal" would hijack a $5-million jet airliner simply on "a great urge to go to Cuba."

Federal Judges Urged To Favor State In Issue

high on his forehead, took issue with Greenberg when the New Yorker inferred the state had a "substantial burden" to furnish public education.

The case attacked the law as unconstitutional in that it (1) denied equal protection of the law to those in the local areas and (2) denied them due process of law.

Gremillion and other state attorneys blasted back at this notion, claiming public education was a privilege and not a right. It was in the state's domain, they said, to substitute private schools for the public school system "as long as we treat everyone alike."

State attorneys also maintained that education at the local (parish or city) level was not a function of the state. The state, they said, merely acts in a supervisory capacity.

Schools, teachers salaries and other school items, they said, came from taxes authorized by the local electorate.

Wisdom frequently asked just what portion the state paid of monies used to run parish school systems. He estimated that nearly $1 million, or perhaps more, came from the state to St. Helena for its schools. This, Wisdom said, would run close to 95 per cent of operational monies, and perhaps higher.

In his preface argument, Gremillion told the court that if the tribunal holds "that a state must furnish public education by the method of a public school system, then it would be setting itself up as supervisors or administrators of such a system."

The court, he added, would be powerless to impose taxes or raise other money to operate such a system.

"For the court to undertake this function," he said, "would result in a hopeless situation."

Gremillion also argued that previous courts in school segregation cases have been unable to find "that the United States Constitution provides that states shall

Franklin Parish Coroner Dr. Brashear Earle termed the death "accidental."

U. S. authorities saw significance in Moscow's avoidance of a specific date as to when Berlin negotiations should start.

nett nevertheless voiced optimism at our chances.

"There has been a change just in the past six months," he said, "in public awareness of the communist menace."

He called those present living proof of his statement.

"Once the people learn the facts, something can be done."

With a long background in American industry and once known as the "Dean" of industrial political and economic education, Bennett viewed the economy as a likely and vulnerable spot for communist attack.

He urged sane fiscal policies and defense of the currency as counter-measures, along with a general awakening among our workers to the dangers of profligacy.

Speaking of a gradual eroding of our freedoms in the past 30 years, Bennett outlined the route of the communist march in this country.

"They started in our schools," he said, "then went to our churches, moved into our political and social affairs, and now threaten our economy."

The National Education Program with which the former top General Electric production executive and political educator has served since his retirement in 1947, dates back to its founding, in 1937, by its current president, Dr. George Benson.

The idea of the Freedom Forum, according to Bennett, is a product of Harding College and the National Education Program. The first such program was conducted on the college campus in 1948 and since "has grown almost into an institution across the United States."

Bennett called the apparently increasing violence in this country, such as that seen in "Operation Abolition," a part of the "communist master plan."

He likened it to similar methods used elsewhere in the world where the Reds' first infiltrate, then seemingly conciliate and accept a coalition government, and finally take over.

The same thing has occurred, recently, Bennett said, in Cuba, and now is happening in Laos.

A raft of Fifth Congressional District municipal officials including delegates from Rayville, Delhi and Columbia, were introduced by master of ceremonies Eugene Smith, manager of the West Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce, were sponsors of the program.

Mayors Roy Snider of Delhi and John W. Brockner of Columbia also were present with several of their aldermen.

Earlier in the evening, Monroe Mayor W. L. "Jack" Howard spoke in defense of his idea for a conference of Southern municipal officials, now a reality and slated for Memphis, Tenn.

"We need such an organization," Howard said, "to study proposed bills in the light of their effect on the Southern way of life, the Constitution and the national economy. Purpose of that study, he said, would be to alert the public to the benefits or dam-

Nine hours after landing, border patrolman Leonard W. Gilman, 43, a passenger-hostage, slugged the father, FBI agent Francis Crosby, aboard to negotiate, overpowered the son.

The hijacking brought new outcries from Congress for action against Cuba and its prime minister, Fidel Castro. But there was no evidence Cuba had anything to do with the hijacking.

The Federal Aviation Agency issued orders allowing plane crewmen to arm themselves—a move not approved by all airlines or crew spokesmen.

Congress rushed to pass legislation providing imprisonment for persons hijacking planes.

FFA Administrator Najeeb E. Halaby told a Senate committee legislation is needed to meet the menace of "air drunks, flying fools and spies in the sky."

Halaby Requests Hijacking Law

H. Warner, general counsel of the Civil Aeronautics Board, told the subcommittee: "Under present conditions of high speed air transportation, state criminal laws are no longer adequate as a deterrent to crimes on board aircraft."

Halaby, discussing the recent series of hijackings, said the last three cases evidently were carried out by foolish men who felt by some "heroic act they could make some progress in their individual lives — psychopathic as they may be."

But Halaby said there also is the problem of the "airborne subversive, the spy in the sky," who may hijack a plane at the bidding of a foreign government or under a compulsion to humiliate the United States.

In this regard, Halaby said the government has no positive evidence of any connection between Thursday's hijacking and Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuban regime.

West Germany Hikes Military

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany is boosting its military strength to meet the Berlin crisis by increasing arms purchases abroad, Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss said today.

Strauss said plans are being readied also either to raise draft quotas or call up reservists to implement the expected decision that this country's eight North Atlantic Treaty Organization divisions be brought up to full wartime strength.

Two patrolmen tried to stop them from entering the white waiting room. Patrolman D. N. Meacham told them they were courting arrest and urged them to use the Negro waiting room.

The four walked into the white waiting room. Inside the station, Police Chief Harvey Teasley told them they were breaking local and state laws. He asked them to leave.

When asked if they would be arrested if they did not leave, police said "yes."

The Negro minister answered, "I have no choice." He said the group would not leave.

They were escorted out of the waiting room without incident.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DREAM RIVAL.
DEAR ABBY: If anybody asks you if she should marry a widower who was married to the same woman for 42 years, tell her not to.

I have been married six months to a widower who is wonderful to me when he is awake, but he calls me Ida in his sleep. I was married and widowed twice, and I never once called my present husband Wendell or Herbert. If I can be careful, so can he. I am certainly not interested in a divorce at my age, but I would like to know how to handle this heartless old cuss. —HURT

DEAR HURT: It is not easy to forget a 42-year-old hitch, so be patient with him. Your husband isn't responsible for what he calls you in his sleep. (At least you know who Ida was.)

DEAR ABBY: The boy I like is 20, but my mother won't let me go out with him because I am only 15. My mother says this boy is too fast for me, and is only out for what he can get. Abby, he does have a bad reputation, but I have been out with him twice on the sly, and every time he started something I didn't like I put him in his place and he behaved okay again. I wish you could help me convince my mother that, if she lets me date him without sneaking, she won't have to worry about me. I want to be able to date him out in the open. I know I can handle him. —CENSORED

DEAR CENSORED:—And what if you can't? Listen to your mother. Honey. Bad reputations are highly contagious. A 20-year-old man who would date a 15-year-old girl on the sly is bad news.

DEAR ABBY: I am at the end of my rope. I have earned (and am still capable of earning) top wages as a secretary. Instead of working out, I must stay home and care for my husbands elderly father. Grandpa is 83, senile, and has no control over his kidneys. He puts things on the stove and forgets them. He smokes constantly, and I must watch him every minute to see that he doesn't set himself, or the house, on fire. The poor old man is very deaf and difficult to be with.

My husband says it is all right to leave him alone, but I know better. Grandpa has many other relatives, but they don't even bother to call up and ask how he is. Should I walk out and go to work? Or should I stay here and play nursemaid to my father-in-law? —THOROUGHLY DISGUSTED

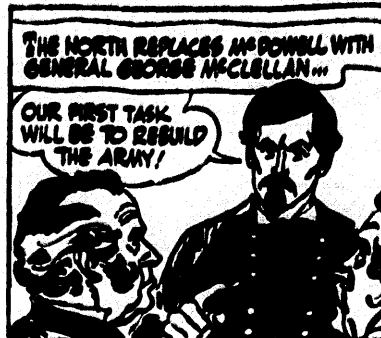

DEAR DISGUSTED: From your letter it is apparent that Grandpa needs around-the-clock care. If you can't hire someone, place him in a good nursing home that is equipped to keep him comfortable and well cared for.

UNDER THE STARS AND BARS

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

Northern Army

The Confederates learned on August 10, 1861, on the banks of Wilson's Creek in southwest Missouri that one southerner couldn't whip five Yankees. In fact, in this bloody little battle named for the creek (Oak Hill to the Confederates) a northern army fought twice its numbers to a standstill, retreating only when its commander was killed and a flanking column cut to pieces. Again, as at Bull Run, the Confederates were content to allow the Unionists to withdraw without pursuit.

The Federals were outnumbered 11,600 to 5,400 when the battle started at dawn. At 10:30 a.m. Brig. Gen. Nathaniel Lyon, Federal commander, was killed. At 11:30 a.m. Maj. Samuel D. Sturgis, a Regular Army officer, took command and ordered a retreat, a decision for which he was roundly condemned.

Lyon was a fiery, red-haired, red-whiskered officer who a few months earlier had cleaned out a camp of secessionists in St. Louis, thereby receiving a big share of the credit for keeping Missouri in the Union.

FORCES SPLIT

But on the morning of Wilson's Creek he had lost his fire and was "oppressed with responsibility," his aide, Lt. William M. Wherry, reported.

Like Brig. Gen. Irwin McDowell at Manassas, Lyon split his forces. He sent Col. Franz Sigel with 1,200 men and six pieces of artillery to skirt the right flank of the Confederates. Lyon, commanding the main force, advanced southeast along Wilson's Creek.

The Confederate camp lay on a tongue of land where a small stream called Skaggs' Branch ran into the creek.

The Confederates were surprised at breakfast. Brig. Gen. Ben McCulloch of Arkansas was in command of Arkansas was in command with Brig. Gen. Sterling Price of Missouri as his second.

DRIVEN BACK

McCulloch had pulled in his pickets the night before when he expected to march on the Federals. As the weather was threatening, McCulloch called off the march and the pickets were not re-posted. Hence the Federals had a clear unchallenged way to the camp, not even a cavalry patrol on a foraging expedition sighting the blue columns.

Lyon hit Price's Missourians and drove them back in an hour of fighting. Union Capt. J. B. Plummer, leading a battalion of Missouri Home Guards with some regulars, attacked a regiment of the Pelican Rifles of Louisiana in a broomcorn field on Lyon's left. In an hour of fighting the southerners were driven back but counter-attacked with spirit.

Siegel's column in the meantime hit the Confederates from the rear and drove them into Price's Missourians, who were fighting Lyon. But Sigel mistook the gray-clad 3rd Louisiana Regiment for the 1st Iowa, which also wore gray uniforms, until it was too late. The Louisianians and two batteries of artillery cut Sigel's column to pieces with an enfilading fire. Some of his men escaped back to Springfield. Sigel himself barely made it back, hiding in the brush from the pursuing Confederates for a time.

Siegel attributed his escape to the fact that he wore a blue blanket over his blue colonel's uniform. He wore a yellow sash hat, and was taken for a Texas Ranger, he wrote later.

SIEGEL ESCAPES

A little later the Confederate cavalry recognized Sigel and he and a few companions started riding hard for Springfield.

"It was a pretty lively race for about six miles," Sigel reported.

The Confederates claimed Sigel escaped in disguise.

With Sigel's and Plummer's troops out of the way, McCulloch sent all his men against Lyon.

Four times the Confederates attacked Lyon's line. Each time they faltered and fell back down the hill.

An hour before the battle ended, Lyon was leading two companies of Iowa troops and swinging his hat when he rode directly into a Confederate volley. One ball struck him in the left breast. He slowly dismounted and fell into the arms of his orderly.

HAVE ENOUGH

By 11:30 a.m. the Confederates had had enough and so had Maj. Sturgis, who ordered the Federals to withdraw.

Brig. Gen. N. B. Pearce, writing later, said: "We were glad to see him go." Italizing the phrase, "Our ammunition was exhausted, our men undisciplined, and we feared to risk pursuit."

Lyon's body was recovered by the Confederates, who later turned it over to a Federal patrol.

It was taken to Springfield, Mo., to the home of Mary Whitney Phelps, wife of Congressman John S. Phelps. She had it buried in her garden until it could be removed to Ashford, Conn., Lyons birthplace.

Congress later granted $20,000 to Mrs. Phelps for her services. With it she established a home in Springfield for Union and Confederate orphans. Casualties at Wilson's Creek were heavy, considering the number of men engaged. Union losses were: 223 killed; 721 wounded; 291 missing. Confederate losses: 257 killed; 900 wounded; 27 missing.

Union fire was more effective, perhaps because of better arms and ammunition. Federal soldiers killed or wounded 214 Confederates for every 1,000 of their own troops engaged. Confederates inflicted only 81 casualties on the same basis.

Kike Manassas, Wilson's Creek was a training ground for future generals. Lt. Col. Gordon Granger, of Sturgis' staff, became a major general. Maj. John M. Schofield, of Lyon's staff, also became a major general.

14. Wherry became a brigadier and won the Medal of Honor for services at Wilson's Creek.

Birch Society Leader Warns Of Infiltration

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — John Birch Society head Robert Welch Friday night told an audience at the third annual Christian Crusade Convention that Communists have infiltrated from 50 to 70 per cent of key posts in government, business and institutions.

Welch said only three per cent of the Americans are communists but they successfully scheme to high positions at an increasing rate. He said means used by this country to fight communism, such as foreign aid and the United Nations, were carrying the United States "steadily down the road to communism."

In a speech prepared for delivery, he said Communists use the "principle of reversal" to deceive people by attaining places they are not expected. The Protestant minister, State Department and Central Intelligence Agency now contain many Reds, he said.

The CIA is "just the same as working for Communists," he said and the Reds have "as complete control of the United Nations' apparatus as they need."

Welch was keynote speaker at the convention hosted by Dr. Billy James Hargis, a radio evangelist. Hargis said the meeting is aimed at the "deadly peril of liberalism, socialism and communism."

Car Production Hits Low Mark

During August

DETROIT (UPI)—August car production in the United States will hit a 13-year low, Ward's Automotive reports said Friday.

With 1961 model production closed out except for Ford Motor Co., and most plants idled for model changeover, August production will hit an estimated 126,000 new cars and 54,000 1961 models, the statistical agency said.

The August decline was attributed to an earlier than usual halt in 1961 production.

The industry built an estimated 33,410 cars this week, compared with 74,831 last week and 103,504 in the same week a year ago, Ward's said.

I wish you could help me convince my mother that, if she lets me date him without sneaking, she won't have to worry about me. I want to be able to date him out in the open. I know I can handle him. —CENSORED

DEAR CENSORED:—And what if you can't? Listen to your mother. Honey. Bad reputations are highly contagious. A 20-year-old man who would date a 15-year-old girl on the sly is bad news.

DEAR ABBY: I am at the end of my rope. I have earned (and am still capable of earning) top wages as a secretary. Instead of working out, I must stay home and care for my husbands elderly father. Grandpa is 83, senile, and has no control over his kidneys. He puts things on the stove and forgets them. He smokes constantly, and I must watch him every minute to see that he doesn't set himself, or the house, on fire. The poor old man is very deaf and difficult to be with.

My husband says it is all right to leave him alone, but I know better. Grandpa has many other relatives, but they don't even bother to call up and ask how he is. Should I walk out and go to work? Or should I stay here and play nursemaid to my father-in-law? —THOROUGHLY DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: From your letter it is apparent that Grandpa needs around-the-clock care. If you can't hire someone, place him in a good nursing home that is equipped to keep him comfortable and well cared for.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Abby." Absinthe "does" make the heart grow fonder. Have some.

North Army

The Confederates learned on August 10, 1861, on the banks of Wilson's Creek in southwest Missouri that one southerner couldn't whip five Yankees. In fact, in this bloody battle named for the creek (Oak Hill to the Confederates) a northern army fought twice its numbers to a standstill, retreating only when its commander was killed and a flanking column cut to pieces. Again, as at Bull Run, the Confederates were content to allow the Unionists to withdraw without pursuit.

The Federals were outnumbered 11,600 to 5,400 when the battle started at dawn. At 10:30 a.m. Brig. Gen. Nathaniel Lyon, Federal commander, was killed. At 11:30 a.m. Maj. Samuel D. Sturgis, a Regular Army officer, took command and ordered a retreat, a decision for which he was roundly condemned.

Lyon was a fiery, red-haired, red-whiskered officer who a few months earlier had cleaned out a camp of secessionists in St. Louis, thereby receiving a big share of the credit for keeping Missouri in the Union.

FORCES SPLIT

But on the morning of Wilson's Creek he had lost his fire and was "oppressed with responsibility," his aide, Lt. William M. Wherry, reported.

Like Brig. Gen. Irwin McDowell at Manassas, Lyon split his forces. He sent Col. Franz Siegel with 1,200 men and six pieces of artillery to skirt the right flank of the Confederates. Lyon, commanding the main force, advanced southeast along Wilson's Creek.

The Confederate camp lay on a tongue of land where a small stream called Skegg's Branch ran into the creek.

The Confederates were surprised at breakfast. Brig. Gen. Ben McCulloch of Arkansas was in command of Arkansas was in command with Brig. Gen. Sterling Price of Missouri as his second.

DRIVEN BACK
McCulloch had pulled in his pickets the night before when he expected to march on the Federals. As the weather was threatening, McCulloch called off the march and the pickets were not re-posted.

Hence the Federals had a clear unchallenged way to the camp, not even a cavalry patrol on a foraging expedition sighting the blue columns.

Lyon hit Price's Missourians and drove them back in an hour of fighting.

Union Capt. J. B. Plummer, leading a battalion of Missouri Home Guards with some regulars, attacked a regiment of the Pelican Rifles of Louisiana in a broomcorn field on Lyon's left. In an hour of fighting the southerners were driven back but counter-attacked with spirit.

Siegel's column in the meantime hit the Confederates from the rear and drove them into Price's Missourians, who were fighting Lyon. But Siegel mistook the gray-clad 3rd Louisiana Regiment for the 1st Iowa, which also wore gray uniforms, until it was too late. The Louisianians and two batteries of artillery cut Siegel's column to pieces with an enfilading fire. Some of his men escaped back to Springfield. Siegel himself barely made it back, hiding in the brush from the pursuing Confederates for a time.

Siegel attributed his escape to the fact that he wore a blue blanket over his blue colonel's uniform. He wore a yellow slouch hat, and was taken for a Texas Ranger, he wrote later.

SIEGEL ESCAPES
A little later the Confederate cavalry recognized Siegel and he and a few companions started riding for Springfield.

"It was a pretty lively race for about six miles," Siegel reported. The Confederates claimed Siegel escaped in disguise.

With Siegel's and Plummer's troops out of the way, McCulloch sent all his men against Lyon.

Four times the Confederates attacked Lyon's line. Each time they faltered and fell back down the hill.

An hour before the battle ended, Lyon was leading two companies of Iowa troops and swinging his hat when he rode directly into a Confederate volley. One ball struck him in the left breast. He slowly dismounted and fell into the arms of his orderly.

"I am killed," he told the aide.

HAVE ENOUGH
By 11:30 a.m. the Confederates had had enough and so had Maj. Sturgis, who ordered the Federals to withdraw.

Brig. Gen. N. B. Pearce, writing later, said: "We were glad to see our ammunition was exhausted, our men undisciplined and we feared to risk pursuit."

Springfield for Union and Confederate orphans.

Casualties at Wilson's Creek were heavy, considering the number of men engaged. Union losses were: 223 killed; 721 wounded; 291 missing. Confederate losses: 257 killed; 900 wounded; 27 missing.

Union fire was more effective, perhaps because of better arms and ammunition. Federal soldiers killed or wounded 214 Confederates for every 1,000 of their own troops engaged. Confederates inflicted only 81 casualties on the same basis.

Kike Manassas, Wilson's Creek was a training ground for future generals. Lt. Col. Gordon Granger, of Sturgis' staff, became a major general. Maj. John M. Schofield, of Lyon's staff, also became a major general.

Lt. Wherry became a brigadier and won the Medal of Honor for services at Wilson's Creek.

Birch Society
Leader Warns
Of Infiltration

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — John Birch Society head Robert Welch Friday night told an audience at the third annual Christian Crusade Convention that Communists have infiltrated from 50 to 70 per cent of key posts in government, business and institutions.

Welch said only three per cent of the Americans are communists but they successfully scheme to high positions at an increasing rate. He said means used by this country to fight communism, such as foreign aid and the United Nations, were carrying the United States "steadily down the road to communism."

In a speech prepared for delivery, he said Communists use the "principle of reversal" to deceive people by attaining places they are not expected. The Protestant ministry, State Department and Central Intelligence Agency now contain many Reds, he said.

The CIA is "just the same as working for Communists," he said and the Reds have "as complete control of the United Nations' apparatus as they need."

Welch was keynote speaker at the convention hosted by Dr. Billy James Hargis, a radio evangelist. Hargis said the meeting is aimed at the "deadly peril of liberalism, socialism and communism."

Car Production Hits Low Mark During August

DETROIT (UPI)—August car production in the United States will hit a 13-year low, Ward's Automotive reports said Friday.

With 1961 model production closed out except for Ford Motor Co. and most plants idled for model changeover, August production will hit an estimated 126,000 new cars and 34,000 1961 models, the statistical agency said.

The August decline was attributed to an earlier than usual halt in 1961 production.

The industry built an estimated 33,410 cars this week, compared with 74,831 last week and 103,504 in the same week a year ago, Ward's said.

May Need War Grain

Bills adopted by the house and senate to fatten the pocketbooks of grain farmers while cutting back production undoubtedly are based more on present surpluses than on the possible disastrous results of severe droughts and the possibility of war with Russia. We should not forget that the United States may be called upon again to serve as the world's breadbasket and that we should not cut our surpluses too much.

Both bills would force farmers to cut wheat plantings by 10 per cent, taking five million acres out of production.

The drought which has scorched large areas of North Dakota and Montana this summer brings memories of the terrible dust storms in the Great Plains states in the 1930s.

The area affected is only a fraction of that which was churned into huge, devastating clouds of dust in 1934 and 1936 but a recurrence of those disasters this year should serve as a warning to those responsible for the farm programs of the nation.

Despite much progress in farming techniques since the 1930s, the Great Plains area still is a speculative farming region. Droughts seem to come in cycles and the condition which exists in the northern fringe of the region now may well be extended next year and become more serious.

Crop losses as a result of the drought this year have not been serious when measured against total production of grain or against the reserve supplies.

The winter wheat crop, produced in the area south of the drought region, is being harvested and will total about a billion bushels—the third largest on record. The spring wheat crop is expected to be 12 per cent below last year's production and the smallest crop since 1936 but still will total about 143 million bushels.

Canada faces a more serious situation. The crop there is estimated now at only 235 million bushels. Last year the prairie provinces produced 490 million bushels. If domestic needs and exports from Canada continue up to par, as they are expected to do, the surplus in Canada next July is expected to fall below the 300-million bushel mark for the first time since 1952.

If the drought continues in Canada for another year, the Dominion may be pressed for wheat and the United States supplies could dwindle rapidly if this nation is called upon to lend a hand to its northern neighbor.

In addition to the wheat problem, there is the question of feed grain supplies. The Department of Agriculture already has ordered a halt to all sales of Commodity Credit Corporation oats in the drought areas in the United States and exports of barley and oats are being restricted to conserve supplies.

Thus, in a few months the nation's farm problem has changed considerably. And at the same time the possibility of war seems to be increasing. Should the international situation become worse, the United States surpluses of grains which have been such a vexing problem in recent years could melt away as did the reserves that seemed so burdensome in the late 1930s.

The communists countries of Europe did not have a "cushion" of surpluses when droughts and dust storms struck parts of the Soviet Union last year and heavy rains reduced production in Eastern Europe this spring. Eastern Europe, once a surplus food area, was on short rations even before the weather became bad, the farmers disgruntled and unco-operative under the system the communists imposed.

This should make clear to Congress now the need for continued use of our agricultural potential, the need for maintaining farm production at high levels and finding ways to live with the abundance which we are capable of producing.

It is well known that it is much easier to maintain a high level of production than to bring it back up once it has been allowed to decline.

The United States, in 1940, had a slogan that proclaimed "food will win the war and write the peace."

By maintaining our farm abundance now, food may well prove more important than weapons in helping to prevent war and, if war should come, nothing could be more important than an abundance of food and supplies.

Our Soybeans Good

Because the communists of Red China like those of Russia, are having trouble with their farming, far-sighted leadership in both American industry and the agricultural extension service is going to make it possible for southern farmers this year to nip the progress of Red China at least a little.

Reports from China are that bad weather, combined with bad management under the communist dictators, has resulted in a bad soybean crop. Instead of being an exporter of soybeans this year, Red China probably will be trying to buy beans.

Fortunately, and through no credit to the national administration, the United States thus far has avoided getting into farming on a peasant-style basis, and is still capable of high-capacity production.

As a result, there will be an ample supply of soybeans in this country to supply the export market. And the south, which has become an important area for producing soybeans, making them a worthy competitor of cotton, will be supplying a large part of that market.

Once the United States gets into these foreign markets with these soybeans, there is every reason to believe that outlet will continue to take our product. The department of agriculture estimates that exports of soybeans during the next five years will increase by 40 per cent.

The south is on the ground floor to make a big advance in farm exports and at the same time to make a contribution to the fight against world communism.

'Rush In' Roulette

An amusing, although gruesome, cartoon shows Premier Nikita Khrushchev of the Soviet Union looking dubiously down the barrel of a pistol, while beside him is a note saying, "America won't fight." Looking on is Uncle Sam, who is saying "You got as much 'nerve' as Hitler?"

Grotesquely, the cartoon has a double meaning. Most obvious is that of whether Khrushchev has the nerve to play "Russian roulette" by taking a chance on whether or not the United States will fight. More morbid is that of whether Khrushchev would have the nerve to kill himself, as Hitler did when his armies were crumbling and he knew that defeat and death for him were inevitable.

It is a much better than even bet that if Khrushchev is left to his own decision he won't spin the pistol's loading chamber and pull the trigger. He is not a fanatic of the Hitler type and he enjoys life. Right now he probably would be content to let things rock along just as they are, blustering around, gaining some advantages and counting on espionage and infiltration to bring eventual complete conquest by Russia.

Soothing Truman Is Task

President Kennedy Feels Compelled To Ask His Advice On Russia Though He May Not Want It

The war-shrouded Berlin crisis holds other pressing dilemmas for President Kennedy in addition to coping with the intractable threats and machinations of Nikita Khrushchev.

Not the least of these harassing demands is placating former President Truman.

One of the things Kennedy felt impelled to do before making his grim telecast to the nation was to call up Truman and discuss the matter with him.

Reason the President deemed it necessary to take the time and trouble to do this, despite the strain of this tense occasion, was a blunt hint from Truman that he was being slighted in not being consulted on Berlin and other urgent problems.

The former President communicated this gripe through Washington officials who visited him at Independence, Mo.

Truman had no complaint about Administration policies, particularly domestic. He warmly approved them. But in discussing foreign affairs, he expressed surprise that his views had not been sought by the President.

To underline this grievance, Truman noted pointedly that Kennedy had consulted Eisenhower, Nixon, and General MacArthur—all heartily disliked by Truman.

One of Truman's callers remarked that the abortive Cuban invasion had been taken up with him; that a special briefing had been arranged. To which the former President retorted sharply:

"Yes, but not by Kennedy. He didn't brief me. Lyndon Johnson did. He came out and told me about it after it was all over. That was all right as far as it went, but it didn't go very far."

Notwithstanding this backstage grievance, Truman is making it clear: he still is the old political warhorse and is champing at the bit to get into the fray again.

When Senator Vance Hartke, Ind., chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee, asked if Truman would campaign in next year's crucial congressional election, his eyes lit up and he beamed with happy anticipation.

"I'm ready and rarin' to go," enthused Truman. "I'll help in every way I can. I'll campaign in any state for any Democratic candidate for Congress who wants me. Of course you know I am still pretty controversial in some areas. So I'll campaign only where I'm asked and where I think I can do some good. You can count on me to the hilt for that."

One Senator already has Truman's promise to electioneer for him—Wayne Morse, D-Ore. That pledge was made during the former president's last visit to Washington.

"There is no one I'd rather campaign for than you," he told Morse. "You are my favorite Senator, and I mean that. You are also the only real farmer in the Senate. So if you want me, I'll be in your corner fighting in '62."

"I want you," replied Morse, "and I'll be counting on you. You can help me a lot."

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

'Silent Stones'

People With Gall Bladder Trouble Able To Think It Over

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Will you write about gall bladder trouble? What is meant by "silent gall stones"? Sincerely, Mrs. F. George.

COMMENT: Silent gall stones are those that produce no pain, nausea, vomiting or other form of indigestion.

You go to a doctor for a complete physical and he may feel you need a GI series and a gall bladder visualization. He tells you that everything is fine except that the X-rays show you have one large stone called a "solitary" stone or have dozens of small stones in your gall bladder. What to do?

Many things have to be considered. Your age, your physical condition, and other factors. The important thing to remember is that such a diagnosis of gall stones doesn't require rushing into operation. You have time to think it over. It isn't as if you had an acute attack of cholecystitis with a stone stuck in one of the bile ducts causing severe pain, nausea and perhaps jaundice. In the latter instance you may require operation immediately to prevent gangrene and possible rupture of the gall bladder.

If you have discovered that you have gall stones that do not produce symptoms, you and your doctor have a choice. Whether or not you come to operation soon may depend upon your doctor as well as upon yourself. Your doctor may belong to the school that believes in letting well enough alone. He knows that some patients with stones live into their 80's without further trouble. He may say it's worth the gamble to go along without operation. You may wish to take that chance rather than submit to surgery.

But another doctor may not agree with such thinking. He will say that you are taking too much of a chance by waiting and hoping you will never have an attack of gall stone colic. Besides, he will tell you that the presence of stones may be a predisposition to cancer of the gall bladder. Or he may say that your chances of surviving an operation after the age of 50 are less than if you had the operation before that age. (For example, in a recent report by Frank Glenn M. D., of the Cornell Medical Center, N.Y., we learn that in a series of 5,937 gall bladder operations over a period of 26 years, the mortality rate was only one patient in every 200 operations under 50; and as many as 6 patients in every 200 operations in those over 50 years of age.) As you can understand, Mrs. F., I can't tell each individual with gall bladder disease what to do. That is between patient and doctor. But I can say this: I have advised many of my own patients with silent stones to rely on a low fat diet, (avoiding doughnuts, pies, potato chips, pork, fried foods, gravies, nuts, chocolate and olives). They have lived for 20-25 years without any trouble with their gall bladder. On the other hand, after weighing all circumstances (past history, age, physical condition) I have advised operation in others and have not been sorry for it.

What I'd like you to keep remembering about gall bladder disease (except when there is a serious, acute attack of colic) is this: unlike acute appendicitis, where operation must be performed as soon as possible, you can take your time deciding about operation for chronic gall bladder trouble.

For Mr. T., Kentucky: Nitroglycerine tablets often become ineffective in angina pectoris because they are stale. Keep a fresh supply on hand. Buy them by the dozens rather than by the hundreds.

THE ALMANAC

By United Press International
Today is Saturday, Aug. 5, the 217th day of the year with 148 to follow in 1961.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mars, Saturn and Jupiter.

On this day in history: In 1850, French writer Guy de Maupassant was born.

In 1861, for the first time, the United States government levied a tax on income, three per cent on all income over $800.

In 1949, a violent earthquake in Ecuador razed 50 towns and killed about six thousand persons.

In 1953, Operation Big Switch, the exchange of prisoners of war between the United Nations command and the Chinese and North Koreans, began at Panmunjom, Korea.

A thought for today: Greek philosopher Socrates said: "The life which is unexamined is not worth living."

POLITICALS — Kentucky's former Governor "Happy" Chandler and one-time Senator Earle Clements, until recently bitter enemies, are now working in warm harmony against Lieutenant Governor Wilson Wyatt, slated to run against Senator Thurston Morton, lately, resigned Chairman of the Republican National Committee. Morton defeated Clements in 1954 largely because of Chandler's hostility. But now he and Clements, in a common dislike of Wyatt, have joined forces to oppose him.

Just how that will pan out remains to be seen, because Chandler has his cap set to run for Governor again. To grease the wheels for that campaign, a birthday party was staged for him in Lexington attended by 2,000 henchmen — and hopeful job aspirants — who forked over $10 a plate. Foremost among the speakers was none other than his one-time bitter foe Clements. . . . Barring a last minute change in plans, Judge James Parsons, elected to the Superior Court of Cook County, Ill., last November, is slated to be the first Negro appointed to the federal district judgeship in the Continental United States. A former Assistant U. S. Attorney in Chicago, Parsons is being backed for this appointment by Senator Paul Douglas, D-Ill. If it goes through, Parsons will be the twelfth Negro to sit on a federal court. Six have served on the D.C. Municipal Court, two on the Customs Court, and four on the District Court in the Virgin Islands.

In the past two columns, I've explained why Britain has fallen into this sixth economic crisis of the post-World War II period and what she is doing to solve it. Now:

Q. How will Britain's moves affect you and me?

A. If, say, one of your biggest customers and competitors were to tell you that he is in financial trouble and to get out of it, he must cut down spending in your shop and simultaneously, try to increase his earnings by competing more aggressively for your other customers' patronage, you'd scarcely dance with joy. In the simplest terms, this is what Britain has told us, in the United States.

Before going into details, it is essential to understand that our government approves of what the British government is doing, for a weak ally with a sick currency and backward, inefficient producers is no asset to us in the struggle between the Soviet bloc and the free world. We need a healthy partner and anything Britain does to strengthen herself strengthens the western alliance.

This is the long term — constructive aspect of Britain's attempts to balance her income and outgo. Having made this point, though, it also is essential to understand that the short-term effects on us are adverse.

(1) The hiked sales taxes and harsh curbs on credit are designed to slash installment buying and spending by Britons across-the-board. These controls must reduce our sales in the British market. As one U. S. appliance maker put it, "Any hike in British taxes or additional credit restrictions won't do us any good."

(2) The curbs on buying and borrowing will reduce sales by subsidiaries of U. S. corporations based in Britain and selling to the British market. While U. S. corporation executives claim the reduction will be modest, they admit a decline in sales is on the way.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Secrecy In News

Administration Policy Is Titled Unwise And Inefficient

The news policy of this Administration is neither wise nor efficient. It will not last long. It will only stimulate good reporting which has long been absent, particularly from Washington and Secrecy leads to rumors and guesses. Congressional Policy of Washington asked to be furnished with the names of American firms seeking export licenses to deal with Soviet countries. Such data is available in the Department of Commerce. I quote Representative Kelly:

"While my request has not as yet been formally acknowledged, I do know the nature of the reply I shall receive. When Secretary Hodge appeared before the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee on July 11, an opportunity was presented for me to personally ask about the matter, and the Secretary stated that the decision had been made not to disclose the names of any firms doing business with the Kremlin."

Why the secrecy? Do the firms in this business need protection from boycott or mayhem? If it is as bad as all that, why would they want to do business with Soviet countries? If Americans are ashamed to do business with Iron Curtain countries, they should not do it. It must be said that the policy of secrecy is at least 20 years old. It did not originate in the Kennedy Administration. But that does not alter the fact that we are dealing with it now and a decision concerning it needs to be made now. It will be recalled that when Mikoyan came to this country, he was winced and dined by American businessmen and bankers. The businessmen were looking for contracts and undoubtedly some got some.

The excuse generally given is that permits are only given for non-strategic material — a term hardly definable in this age of total war. Is wheat non-strategic? Canada ships enormous quantities of wheat to Red China. No item can be strategically more important because Red China is going through a periodical famine. Does Canada, for a profit, wish to keep Mao Tse-tung's regime in office? Even if it is true that business has no conscience, it is also true that nations can go under by making fundamental mistakes in policy.

There can be no excuse for the blabber-mouth of any department, as there can be none for the indiscreet boaster or the homosexual who is subject to blackmail. Nevertheless, a broad, general suppression of information does not succeed. It can only lead to rumor and guessing.

During certain periods of the Roosevelt Administration, it was easier to get accurate information concerning the Administration from London than in Washington.

It may be recalled that we were told that nothing of a secret nature was concluded at the Potsdam Conference. Also, it may be recalled that the reason World War II started was that Germany and Russia invaded Poland. At the conversation between Stalin and Harry Hopkins on May 27, 1945, the top secret document sent to our government stated:

"It is therefore in Russia's vital interest that Poland should be both strong and friendly. He (Stalin) said there was no intention on the part of the Soviet Union to interfere in Poland's internal affairs, that Poland would live under the parliamentary system which is like Czechoslovakia, Belgium and Holland and that any talk of an intention to Sovietize Poland was stupid. . . . The Soviet system was not exportable — it must develop from within on the basis of a set of conditions which were not present in Poland. He said all the Soviet Union wanted was that Poland should not be in a position to open the gates to Germany and in order to prevent this Poland must be strong and democratic."

We know today from the course of events that Stalin was lying. We know that even at that time, Stalin was organizing to make Poland a satellite and that Marshal Rokossovsky was delegated to take control of Poland.

Admiral Zacharias, one of the greatest intelligence officers we have ever had, reported:

"Here again we failed to recognize a major engagement in the cold war, for the Rokossovsky appointment was the first step in a premeditated move to deploy the Soviet forces for the showdown. The strange assignment of a Russian marshal to command a nominally alien army was, indeed, by far the most important show of Stalin's hand."

Britain And Us

United States Affected By Critically Important Customer

Make no mistake about it — what Britain, our closest ally and critically important customer, does is of direct meaning to you.

What Britain has just done is: First, imposed a tough austerity program to force down buying by her people and force up selling abroad by her business; second, begun negotiations to unite with the nations of Europe into one vast, powerful Common Market and by so doing, end her 500-year old status as an independent nation.

In the past two columns, I've explained why Britain has fallen into this sixth economic crisis of the post-World War II period and what she is doing to solve it. Now:

Q. How will Britain's moves affect you and me?

A. If, say, one of your biggest customers and competitors were to tell you that he is in financial trouble and to get out of it, he must cut down spending in your shop and simultaneously, try to increase his earnings by competing more aggressively for your other customers' patronage, you'd scarcely dance with joy. In the simplest terms, this is what Britain has told us, in the United States.

Before going into details, it is essential to understand that our government approves of what the British government is doing, for a weak ally with a sick currency and backward, inefficient producers is no asset to us in the struggle between the Soviet bloc and the free world. We need a healthy partner and anything Britain does to strengthen herself strengthens the western alliance.

This is the long term — constructive aspect of Britain's attempts to balance her income and outgo. Having made this point, though, it also is essential to understand that the short-term effects on us are adverse.

(1) The hiked sales taxes and harsh curbs on credit are designed to slash installment buying and spending by Britons across-the-board. These controls must reduce our sales in the British market. As one U. S. appliance maker put it, "Any hike in British taxes or additional credit restrictions won't do us any good."

(2) The curbs on buying and borrowing will reduce sales by subsidiaries of U. S. corporations based in Britain and selling to the British market. While U. S. corporation executives claim the reduction will be modest, they admit a decline in sales is on the way.

(3) The call for restraints on

British corporation profits and dividends will hurt U. S. interests involved. The British stock market has been in a tailspin for weeks in reflection of this.

(4) The boost in the British bank rate to 7 per cent means "hot money" which flows from center to center in search of highest short-term interest rates is being offered an exceedingly juicy rate in London. An immediate outflow of hot money from our country to Britain isn't considered likely but if the rate slays and confidence in the British pound returns, the pull surely will be in that direction.

(5) The lid the British government has placed on spending for overseas aid well may put pressure on us to spend more to fill the gaps. British officials insist their aim is to have West Germany take over more of the British burden but the possible impact on us can't be denied.

(6) Finally when Britain and West Europe join to create one great trading area covering 19 nations and 300 million — plus consumers, we'll be challenged indeed.

This area will have a common tariff against outsiders — and we'll be an outsider. Its member nations will be concentrating on low-cost mass production — and the competition to us could be terrific.

May Need War Grain

Bills adopted by the house and senate to fatten the pocketbooks of grain farmers while cutting back production undoubtedly are based more on present surpluses than on the possible disastrous results of severe droughts and the possibility of war with Russia. We should not forget that the United States may be called upon again to serve as the world's breadbasket and that we should not cut our surpluses too much.

Both bills would force farmers to cut wheat plantings by 10 per cent, taking five million acres out of production.

The drought which has scorched large areas of North Dakota and Montana this summer brings memories of the terrible dust storms in the Great Plains states in the 1930s.

The area affected is only a fraction of that which was churned into huge, devastating clouds of dust in 1934 and 1936 but a recurrence of those disasters this year should serve as a warning to those responsible for the farm programs of the nation.

Despite much progress in farming techniques since the 1930s, the Great Plains area still is a speculative farming region. Droughts seem to come in cycles and the condition which exists in the northern fringe of the region now may well be extended next year and become more serious.

Crop losses as a result of the drought this year have not been serious when measured against total production of grain or against the reserve supplies.

The winter wheat crop, produced in the area south of the drought region, is being harvested and will total about a billion bushels—the third largest on record. The spring wheat crop is expected to be 42 per cent below last year's production and the smallest crop since 1936 but still will total about 143 million bushels.

Canada faces a more serious situation. The crop there is estimated now at only 235 million bushels. Last year the prairie provinces produced 490 million bushels. If domestic needs and exports from Canada continue up to par, as they are expected to do, the surplus in Canada next July is expected to fall below the 300-million bushel mark for the first time since 1952.

If the drought continues in Canada for another year, the Dominion may be pressed for wheat and the United States supplies could dwindle rapidly if this nation is called upon to lend a hand to its northern neighbor.

In addition to the wheat problem, there is the question of feed grain supplies. The Department of Agriculture already has ordered a halt to all sales of Commodity Credit Corporation oats in the drought areas in the United States and exports of barley and oats are being restricted to conserve supplies.

Thus, in a few months the nation's farm problem has changed considerably. And at the same time the possibility of war seems to be increasing. Should the international situation become worse, the United States surpluses of grains which have been such a vexing problem in recent years could melt away as did the reserves that seemed so burdensome in the late 1930s.

The communists countries of Europe did not have a "cushion" of surpluses when droughts and dust storms struck parts of the Soviet Union last year and heavy rains reduced production in Eastern Europe this spring. Eastern Europe, once a surplus food area, was on short rations even before the weather became bad, the farmers disgruntled and unco-operative under the system the communists imposed.

This should make clear to Congress now the need for continued use of our agricultural potential, the need for maintaining farm production at high levels and finding ways to live with the abundance which we are capable of producing.

It is well known that it is much easier to maintain a high level of production than to bring it back up once it has been allowed to decline.

The United States, in 1940, had a slogan that proclaimed "food will win the war and write the peace."

By maintaining our farm abundance now, food may well prove more important than weapons in helping to prevent war and, if war should come, nothing could be more important than an abundance of food and supplies.

Our Soybeans Good

Because the communists of Red China like those of Russia, are having trouble with their farming, far-sighted leadership in both American industry and the agricultural extension service is going to make it possible for southern farmers this year to nip the progress of Red China at least a little.

Reports from China are that bad weather, combined with bad management under the communist dictators, has resulted in a bad soybean crop. Instead of being an exporter of soybeans this year, Red China probably will be trying to buy beans.

Fortunately, and through no credit to the national administration, the United States thus far has avoided getting into farming on a peasant-style basis, and is still capable of high-capacity production.

'Rush In' Roulette

An amusing, although gruesome, cartoon shows Premier Nikita Khrushchev of the Soviet Union looking dubiously down the barrel of a pistol, while beside him is a note saying, "America won't fight." Looking on is Uncle Sam, who is saying "You got as much 'nerve' as Hitler?"

Grotesquely, the cartoon has a double meaning. Most obvious is that of whether Khrushchev has the nerve to play "Russian roulette" by taking a chance on whether or not the United States will fight. More morbid is that of whether Khrushchev would have the nerve to kill himself, as Hitler did when his armies were crumbling and he knew that defeat and death for him were inevitable.

It is a much better than even bet that if Khrushchev is left to his own decision he won't spin the pistol's loading chamber and pull the trigger. He is not a fanatic of the Hitler type and he enjoys life. Right now he probably would be content to let things rock along just as they are, blustering around, gaining some advantages and counting on espionage and infiltration to bring eventual complete conquest by Russia.

As a result, there will be an ample supply of soybeans in this country to supply the export market. And the south, which has become an important area for producing soybeans, making them a worthy competitor of cotton, will be supplying a large part of that market.

Once the United States gets into these foreign markets with these soybeans, there is every reason to believe that outlet will continue to take our product. The department of agriculture estimates that exports of soybeans during the next five years will increase by 40 per cent.

The south is on the ground floor to make a big advance in farm exports and at the same time to make a contribution to the fight against world communism.

Soothing Truman Is Task

President Kennedy Feels Compelled To Ask His Advice On Russia Though He May Not Want It

The war-shrouded Berlin crisis holds other pressing dilemmas for President Kennedy in addition to coping with the irascible threats and machinations of Nikita Khrushchev.

Not the least of these harassing demands is placating former President Truman.

One of the things Kennedy felt impelled to do before making his grim telecast to the nation was to call up Truman and discuss the matter with him.

Reason the President deemed it necessary to take the time and trouble to do this, despite the strain of this tense occasion, was a blunt hint from Truman that he was being slighted in not being consulted on Berlin and other urgent problems.

The former President communicated this gripe through Washington officials who visited him at Independence, Mo.

Truman had no complaint about Administration policies, particularly domestic. He warmly approved them. But in discussing foreign affairs, he expressed surprise that his views had not been sought by the President.

To underline this grievance, Truman noted pointedly that Kennedy had consulted Eisenhower, Nixon, and General MacArthur—all heartily disliked by Truman.

One of Truman's callers remarked that the abortive Cuban invasion had been taken up with him; that a special briefing had been arranged. To which the former President retorted sharply:

"Yes, but not by Kennedy. He didn't brief me. Lyndon Johnson did. He came out and told me about it after it was all over. That was all right as far as it went, but it didn't go very far."

Notwithstanding this backstage grievance, Truman is making it clear he still is the old political warhorse and is champing at the bit to get into the fray again.

When Senator Vance Hartke, Ind., chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee, asked if

Truman would campaign in next year's crucial congressional election, his eyes lit up and he beamed with happy anticipation.

"I'm ready and rarin' to go," enthused Truman. "I'll help in every way I can. I'll campaign in any state for any Democratic candidate for Congress who wants me to. Of course you know I am still pretty controversial in some areas. So I'll campaign only where I'm asked and where I think I can do some good. You can count on me to the hilt for that."

One Senator already has Truman's promise to electioneer for him—Wayne Morse, D-Ore. That pledge was made during the former president's last visit to Washington.

"There is no one I'd rather campaign for than you," he told Morse. "You are my favorite Senator, and I mean that. You are also the only real farmer in the Senate. So if you want me, I'll be in your corner fighting in '62." "I want you," replied Morse, "and I'll be counting on you. You can help me a lot."

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

'Silent Stones'

People With Gall Bladder Trouble Able To Think It Over

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Will you write about gall bladder trouble? What is meant by "silent gall stones"? Sincerely, Mrs. F. J. George

COMMENT: Silent gall stones are those that produce no pain, nausea, vomiting or other form of indigestion.

You go to a doctor for a complete physical and he may feel you need a GI series and a gall bladder visualization. He tells you that everything is fine except that the X-rays show you have one large stone called a "solitary" stone or have dozens of small stones in your gall bladder. What to do?

Many things have to be considered. Your age, your physical condition, and other factors. The important thing to remember is that such a diagnosis of gall stones doesn't require rushing into operation. You have time to think it over. It isn't as if you had an acute attack of cholelithiasis with a stone stuck in one of the bile ducts causing severe pain, nausea and perhaps jaundice. In the latter instance you may require operation immediately to prevent gangrene and possible rupture of the gall bladder.

If you have discovered that you have gall stones that do not produce symptoms, you and your doctor have a choice. Whether or not you come to operation soon may depend upon your doctor as well as upon yourself. Your doctor may belong to the school that believes in letting well enough alone. He knows that some patients with stones live into their 80's without further trouble. He may say it's worth the gamble to go along without operation. You may wish to take that chance rather than submit to surgery.

But another doctor may not agree with such thinking. He will say that you are taking too much of a chance by waiting and hoping you will never have an attack of gall stone colic. Besides, he will tell you that the presence of stones may be a predisposition to cancer of the gall bladder. Or he may say that your chances of surviving an operation after the age of 50 are less than if you had the operation before that age. (For example, in a recent report by Frank Glenn M. D., of the Cornell Medical Center, N.Y., we learn that in a series of 5,937 gall bladder operations over a period of 26 years, the mortality rate was only one patient in every 200 operations under 50; and as many as 6 patients in every 200 operations in those over 50 years of age.)

As you can understand, Mrs. F. J., I can't tell each individual with gall bladder disease what to do. That is between patient and doctor. But I can say this: I have advised many of my own patients with silent stones to rely on a low fat diet (avoiding doughnuts, pies, potato chips, pork, fried foods, gravies, nuts, chocolate and olives). They have lived for 20-25 years without any trouble with their gall bladder. On the other hand, after weighing all circumstances (past history, age, physical condition) I have advised operation in others and have not been sorry for it.

What I'd like you to keep remembering about gall bladder disease (except when there is a serious, acute attack of colic) is this: Unlike acute appendicitis, where operation must be performed as soon as possible, you can take your time deciding about operation for chronic gall bladder trouble.

For Mr. T. Kentucky: Nitroglycerine tablets often become ineffective in angina pectoris because they are stale. Get a fresh supply on hand. Buy them by the dozens rather than by the hundreds.

THE ALMANAC

By United Press International Today is Saturday, Aug. 5, the 217th day of the year with 148 to follow in 1961.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mars, Saturn and Jupiter.

On this day in history: In 1850, French writer Guy de Maupassant was born.

In 1861, for the first time, the United States government levied a tax on income, three per cent on all income over $800.

In 1949, a violent earthquake in Ecuador razed 50 towns and killed about six thousand persons.

In 1953, Operation Big Switch, the exchange of prisoners of war between the United Nations command and the Chinese and North Koreans, began at Panmunjom, Korea.

A thought for today: Greek philosopher Socrates said: "The life which is unexamined is not worth living."

GOP POLITICALS — Former Governor Alf Landon, 1936 GOP presidential candidate, has sent word to President Kennedy that he heartily approves of his Berlin policy. Landon did this in a letter to Dr. Arthur Schlesinger Jr., Pulitzer Prize winning Harvard historian and special White House adviser, long a friend of Landon. The latter wrote Schlesinger he strongly favored giving the President "full emergency powers."

Significant straw in the wind concerning former Vice President Nixon's future political plans. He has urged San Francisco's Mayor George Christopher to get into the race for Governor next year. It won't take much urging to get Christopher to do that, as he has been eyeing the GOP gubernatorial nomination for a long time. However, he is certain to have powerful opposition. Los Angeles Assemblyman Joseph Shell, wealthy oilman, also is planning to throw his hat into the ring. Shell, 53, husky, blond, crewcut, labels himself "a little to the right of Nixon, but not very far away from him, not as far as Barry Goldwater."

GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Secrecy In News

Administration Policy Is Termed Unwise And Inefficient

The news policy of this Administration is neither wise nor efficient. It will not last long. It will only stimulate good reporting which has long been absent, particularly from Washington.

Secrecy leads to rumors and guesses. Congressman Pelly of Washington asked to be furnished with the names of American firms seeking export licenses to deal with Soviet countries. Such data is available in the Department of Commerce. I quote Representative Pelly:

"While my request has not as yet been formally acknowledged, I do know the nature of the reply I shall receive. When Secretary Hodges appeared before the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee on July 11, an opportunity was presented for me to personally ask about the matter, and the Secretary stated that the decision had been made not to disclose the names of any firms doing business with the Kremlin."

Why the secrecy? Do the firms in this business need protection from boycott or mayhem? If it is as bad as all that, why would they want to do business with Soviet countries? If Americans are ashamed to do business with Iron Curtain countries, they should not do it.

It must be said that the policy of secrecy is at least 20 years old. It did not originate in the Kennedy Administration. But that does not alter the fact that we are dealing with it now and a decision concerning it needs to be made now. It will be recalled that when Mikoyan came to this country, he was wine and dined by American businessmen and bankers. The businessmen were looking for contracts and undoubtedly some got some.

The excuse generally given is that permits are only given for non-strategic material—a term hardly definable in this age of total war. Is wheat non-strategic? Canada ships enormous quantities of wheat to Red China. No item can be strategically more important because Red China is going through a periodical famine. Does Canada, for a profit, wish to keep Mao Tse-tung's regime in office? Even if it is true that business has no conscience, it is also true that nations can go under by making fundamental mistakes in policy.

There can be no excuse for the blabber-mouth in any department, as there can be none for the indiscreet booster or the homosexual who is subject to blackmail. Nevertheless, a broad, general suppression of information does not succeed. It can only lead to rumor and guessing.

During certain periods of the Roosevelt Administration, it was easier to get accurate information concerning the Administration from London than in Washington.

It may be recalled that we were told that nothing of a secret nature was concluded at the Potsdam Conference. Also, it may be recalled that the reason World War II started was that Germany and Russia invaded Poland. At the conversation between Stalin and Harry Hopkins on May 27, 1945, the top secret document sent to our government stated:

"It is therefore in Russia's vital interest that Poland should be both strong and friendly. He (Stalin) said there was no intention on the part of the Soviet Union to interfere in Poland's internal affairs, that Poland would live under the parliamentary system which is like Czechoslovakia, Belgium and Holland and that any talk of an intention to Sovietize Poland was stupid. . . . The Soviet system was not exportable—it must develop from within on the basis of a set of conditions which were not present in Poland. He said all the Soviet Union wanted was that Poland should not be in a position to open the gates to Germany and in order to prevent this Poland must be strong and democratic."

We know today from the course of events that Stalin was lying. We know that even at that time, Stalin was organizing to make Poland a satellite and that Marshal Rokossovsky was delegated to take control of Poland.

Admiral Zacharias, one of the greatest intelligence officers we have ever had, reported:

"Here again we failed to recognize a major engagement in the cold war, for the Rokossovsky appointment was the first step in a premeditated move to deploy the Soviet forces for the show-down. The strange assignment of a Russian marshal to command a nominally alien army was, indeed, by far the most important show of Stalin's hand."

Reporters at the time evaluated what they could learn of this differently, but it is preferable to have differing reports than none at all.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

develop milk leg?

THE HUMAN LENS

The eye is like a camera except that in the human eye, the lens cannot move. This means we have no way to focus when the eyeball is too short (far-sightedness) or too long (nearsightedness).

Furthermore, the lens of a good camera is ground to perfection. We develop astigmatism when the outer surface of the eye or the lens is not perfectly spherical. Unless corrective glasses are worn, basketballs look like footballs and the image is distorted as in the funny mirrors in amusement parks.

The eye changes with the passing years, whereas a good camera lasts a long time. It is just as easy to bring a beautiful flower or a distant mountain into focus on the day the camera was bought as 20 years later. The aging eye becomes less elastic and less capable of changing the curvature of the lens.

Most young people have no difficulty shifting their gaze from a house a mile away to reading a book. This is known as accommodation. It beats the best automatic focusing adjuster in a modern camera except that it becomes less efficient with the passing years. It takes longer to focus on printed material after shifting the eyes from a distant object.

Glasses correct defects in visual acuity. After 40, while good distant vision remains, many of us find it difficult to focus on objects close to the eyes. They must be held farther away to be seen clearly. This is corrected with bifocals initially and, for some, trifocals.

In time, greater magnification is needed because the two eyes do not track well together. A single object seen with both eyes is not blended into one (stereopsis). This is bothersome, particularly for close work. The best test for lack of stereopsis is to close one eye and note how much clumsier you are doing close work.

PRESSURE SORE

E. F. Fries: What can be done about a sore on the ear caused by using a hearing aid?

REPLY

Consult your physician first to make certain the sore comes from irritation. If so, it may be necessary to go without the aid until healing occurs or get a new earpiece that fits without rubbing.

MILK LEG IN MALE

G. H. K. writes: Can a man

Yes, even though he never becomes an obstetrical case. This colloquial term refers to swelling of an extremity following inflammation of a vein or the lymphatic passageways. The disorder follows surgery, injury, or pregnancy and occasionally develops spontaneously.

FOOD APPEASEMENT

Mrs. H. V. writes: Whenever I get upset by things going wrong, I crave food. What can I do to stop this bad habit?

REPLY: Walk around the block until the feeling disappears. If the weather is bad, stay home but chew on celery, carrots, or radishes. Your habit is known as consolation eating.

HEART MUSCLE SPASM

Mrs. J. O. writes: What is spasm of the heart muscle?

REPLY: In my opinion, the heart does not go into spasm. Angina pectoris feels like spasm but distress stems from a deficient blood supply to the heart muscle due to narrowing of the coronary arteries.

EPILEPTIC SEIZURES

K. M. writes: I'm 37 years old and have had epilepsy for 25 years. I used to get attacks every four or five weeks, but now they seem to be coming every two weeks, even though I take pills regularly. Could you tell me why?

REPLY: The medication is not controlling the attacks and a larger dosage or a different product may be needed. Modern anti-epilepsy remedies control the seizures in the majority of victims, but not in everyone. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on epilepsy.

Germans Plan Highway Boost

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany announced plans Friday to double its superhighway network and add thousands of miles in regular highways by 1970. About 35 billion marks is to be put into construction by the end of that year. During the 12-year period from 1959 to 1970 the autobahn network is to increase from 1,488 to 3,109 miles.

Peace Corps Bill Draws Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's request for $40 million to put the Peace Corps in business won Senate Foreign Relations Committee approval Friday.

The committee rejected 11-6 a move to cut the first annual authorization to $25 million and then approved the full amount 14-0, with 3 members abstaining. The Peace Corps, which is recruiting and training volunteers for work in underdeveloped countries, was described at the Senate session as having great merit. But in a House hearing, it was denounced as a huge boondoggle.

That criticism was voiced by Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa. Gross accused the Peace Corps director, R. Sargent Shriver, of violating federal lobbying laws by promoting the program in breakfasts with congressmen.

SERVICES TODAY

Former Monroe Woman Is Slain

ODESSA, Tex. (Special) — Funeral services will be held today at 10 a.m. in the Odessa Chapel of Roses Funeral Home for Martha Fatheree, young mother of two, and former Monroe resident, who was slain late Tuesday night in the restaurant where she worked.

Former Monroe man H. O. Fatheree, 30 year-old estranged husband of the slain woman, was in the Ector County Jail today charged with murder.

Fatheree, a truck driver, moved from Monroe with his wife Martha, over three years ago. Mrs. Fatheree had apparently moved to Panama City, Fla. before returning to Odessa. Her father was a Monroe native and died in 1958.

Authorities here said their investigation revealed that Fatheree walked into Bill Country Inn where his wife worked shortly before mid-night Tuesday. There, he ordered food. After he finished eating, authorities said, Fatheree calmly ordered a bottle of beer and finished drinking it before he got up from his chair and started to leave.

As he came within a few feet of his wife, authorities said, Fatheree pulled a gun and opened fire. Justice of the Peace Jimmy Dolen said that his investigation revealed that four shots ranged into

Mrs. Fatheree's chest area. "She was dead almost by the time she hit the floor," Dolen said.

Fatheree later told one of his relatives by telephone "I don't know why I did it — I just lost my mind. I was crazy."

Mrs. Fatheree was employed in the cafe and lounge outside the city limits of Odessa near an industrial center.

Witnesses said that awe-struck customers and other employees of the cafe and lounge were ordered from the premises by the gunman. He reportedly chased some of them into a nearby field before leaving on foot toward Odessa.

Ector County Deputy Sheriff J. D. Henson picked Fatheree up as he calmly walked along the highway and returned him to the inn. He offered no resistance.

A member of the family said the couple had been separated about three months and had recently been discussing a reconciliation. "They had been having trouble for several years — I think she was running around on him," the relative said.

Two young daughters of the couple were in the custody of a nursery where they have been since the slaying. Mrs. Fatheree had left the children, ages five and three, with the attendant Tuesday when she went to work.

Survivors include her mother, Mrs. Leo Farmer, of Panama City, Fla.; her father, Francis G. Moss, whose address was not established; four brothers, Jimmie Moss, and Eddie Moss, both of Odessa; Robert F. Moss and Micky Moss, both of Jackson, Miss.; one sister, Mrs. Mary Jones, of Jackson. The two surviving daughters are Deborah Ann, 5, and Frances Dale, 3.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

develop milk leg?

REPLY

Yes, even though he never becomes an obstetrical case. This colloquial term refers to swelling of an extremity following inflammation of a vein or the lymphatic passageways. The disorder follows surgery, injury, or pregnancy and occasionally develops spontaneously.

FOOD APEASEMENT

Mrs. H. V. writes: Whenever I get upset by things going wrong, I crave food. What can I do to stop this bad habit?

REPLY

Walk around the block until the feeling disappears. If the weather is bad, stay home but chew on celery, carrots, or radishes. Your habit is known as consolation eating.

HEART MUSCLE SPASM

Mrs. J. O. Writes: What is spasm of the heart muscle?

REPLY

In my opinion, the heart does not go into spasm. Angina pectoris feels like spasm but distress stems from a deficient blood supply to the heart muscle due to narrowing of the coronary arteries.

EPILEPTIC SEIZURES

K. M. writes: I'm 37 years old and have had epilepsy for 25 years. I used to get attacks every four or five weeks, but now they seem to be coming every two weeks, even though I take pills regularly. Could you tell me why?

REPLY

The medication is not controlling the attacks and a larger dosage or a different product may be needed. Modern anti-epilepsy remedies control the seizures in the majority of victims, but not in everyone. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on epilepsy.

Today's Health Hint —

Avoid horseplay around and in swimming pools.

Glasses correct defects in visual acuity. After 40, while good distant vision remains, many of us find it difficult to focus on objects close to the eyes. They must be held farther away to be seen clearly. This is corrected with bifocals initially and, for some, trifocals.

In time, greater magnification is needed because the two eyes do not track well together. A single object seen with both eyes is not blended into one (stereopsis). This is bothersome, particularly for close work. The best test for lack of stereopsis is to close one eye and note how much clumsier you are doing close work.

PESSURE SORE

E. F. writes: What can be done about a sore on the ear caused by using a hearing aid?

REPLY

Consult your physician first to make certain the sore comes from irritation. If so, it may be necessary to go without the aid until healing occurs or get a new earpiece that fits without rubbing.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Monetary Fund Draws Support

WASHINGTON (AP)—The International Monetary Fund will make available a $2-billion package in support of Britain's foreign payments position.

The IMF said Friday the United Kingdom will make an immediate drawing of the equivalent of $1.5 billion in nine currencies.

Under a standby agreement, Britain will have the right to make additional drawings equivalent to $500 million during the next 12 months.

The $1.5-billion drawing will be divided among U.S. currency, West German marks, French francs, Italian lire, Netherlands guilders, Belgian francs, Japanese yen, Swedish kroner and Canadian currency.

Britain's drawing on the fund will make available to it substantial amounts of foreign currency while it institutes reforms designed to restore a strong balance of payments position, the fund said.

Police Squads Smash Rally Near Church

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Police squads armed with machine guns and clubs smashed an antigovernment rally near a Roman Catholic church here Friday. One person was reported wounded and several clubbed.

An opposition leader, Viriato A. Fallo, declared the incident proves "there are no civil guarantees nor respect for human rights in the Dominican Republic."

It was the third time in less than a month that authorities used force to break up an antigovernment demonstration.

The incident followed a Mass at a downtown church commemorating the feast day of St. Dominic. A large crowd in front of the church sang the Dominican Republic's national anthem and then marched through the streets shouting, "Liberty, liberty."

The procession ended in front of the headquarters of Union Civica Nacional — Civic Union — a self-styled nonpolitical organization that has led criticism of President Joaquin Balaguer's government for what it called failure to guarantee free political action.

A short time later a large number of unmarked cars raced up, each containing about a dozen police. The scene quickly became one of shouting confusion as demonstrators fought to escape the club-swinging officers. Several shots were heard in the area.

Kilbourne Rites Slated Today; Died On Friday

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 4 p.m. in Grace Episcopal Church for Mrs. Mahala Browne Kilbourne, widow of the late J. W. Kilbourne, who died early Friday at her Monroe home.

Mrs. Kilbourne lived at 1317 Emerson Ave. and had been in ill health for a number of years. Officiating will be the Rev. A. Donald Davies and interment under direction of Peters Funeral Home will be in West Monroe's Hasley Cemetery. The body will lie in state at the grace church until time of services.

Mrs. Kilbourne was a native of Vicksburg, Miss., but had lived in Monroe for the past 46 years where she was a member of the Episcopal Church. A memorial fund has been set up at the church in her name.

Survivors include a number of nieces and nephews, among them Mrs. Walter Pierson Sr., Mrs. Duncan S. Cook and Mrs. A. Milling Berstein, all of Monroe; Mrs. Edgar Lowry, Winnsboro; and two cousins, Mrs. Walter Richardson and Mrs. Phillip Roach, both of New Orleans.

Pallbearers will be Thomas Breard, Clyde R. Brown, Nat Troy, George Hemphill, Ed Hayward, Slade Moody, George Holt, John Eby, F. N. Steele, and Walter J. Pierson Jr., all of Monroe, and Henry Bernstein III, of Lake Charles.

Negro Injured In Area Mishap

WINNSBORO (Special) — A 42-year-old Delhi Negro, Henry May, was in Rogers Clinic at Winnsboro Friday afternoon for treatment of injuries suffered in a fall from a scaffold where he was working on construction of a new Mulhearn Funeral Home.

Landing in a pile of loose concrete, May sustained three broken ribs and was taken to the clinic in an ambulance of the First National Funeral Home at Winnsboro.

Error Noted In Address Report

In a story in Friday's Morning World concerning local law enforcement action in a recent crackdown on Twin City gambling operations, it was stated that a man, Jack Cannon, had been arrested for running a gambling game at 401 Sheridan St. in Monroe.

The address given was a misprint and was run in error and actually was 404 Sheridan St., also in Monroe.

Fire Rating In Town Is Better

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — The fire rating for North Crossett is two grades better after new water and fire protection districts were established.

The rating is now eight, according to E. S. Pavy, manager of the Arkansas Inspection and Rating Bureau. Former rating was 10.

The eighth class rating will mean a substantial savings to property owners on fire insurance rates.

Cincy Nips Pittsburgh, 5-4 Stays Ahead In NL Race

CINCINNATI (AP) — Frank Robinson doubled to center in the ninth inning Friday night to break a 4-4 tie and keep the Cincinnati Reds on top of the National League with a 5-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Robinson's double scored Vada Pinson, who had singled off the Pirates' third reliever, Clem Labine. Labine was charged with the loss, his second in three decisions.

FISHER THROWS 5-HITTER

Orioles, Angels Divide Twin Bill

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jack Fisher stopped the Los Angeles Angels 3-0 on five hits in the second game Friday night to give the Baltimore Orioles a split in a well-pitched twin-night doubleheader.

The Angels won the first game 3-1 on the three-hit pitching of lefty Ted Bowfield, who lost a shutout when Jackie Brandt hit his eighth homer with one out in the ninth inning.

Fisher retired the last 14 Los Angeles batters in a row as he won his fifth game against 10 defeats. The loser, Eli Grba, dropped his seventh in a row and is now 5-11.

Grba was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth after allowing only one run on two singles and a sacrifice fly by Jim Gentile in the third inning.

Baltimore added two more in the eighth off Art Fowler, one on a record-tying pinch hit by 41-year-old Dave Philley.

Philley's double gave him 20 pinch safeties for the season, tying the American League record set by Ed Coleman of the St. Louis Browns in 1936. The major league record of 22 is held by Sam Leslie, set in 1932 with the New York Giants.

The opening game victory was the fifth in Baltimore for the Angels, who have captured only 15 road games all season.

The Angels score all their runs off loser Steve Barber in the fifth inning on a single by Ed Yost, a walk, a two-run double by Kent Hunt, and a run-scoring single by George Thomas.

Bowfield upped his record to 8-3 as he bested Barber in a battle of left-handers. Barber is now 12-9.

Snares Three Paydirt Lobs In Eagle Win

By TED SMITH

CHICAGO (AP) — Tommy McDonald made three spectacular catches of touchdown passes Friday night as the Philadelphia Eagles overcame the College All-Stars 28-14 in the 28th annual All-Star football game before 65,000 in Soldier Field.

Only the brilliant passes of Bill Kilmer of UCLA and Norman Snead of Wake Forest kept the All-Stars in the game.

In the final minutes Kilmer passed 19 yards to Glynn Gregory of Southern Methodist for a touchdown. With only seconds left Dick Green of Ohio U., intercepted a pass and ran 37 yards for the Collegians' second and last touchdown.

Joe Bellino, Navy's All-American, suffered a pulled leg muscle warming up for the game and was unable to play.

The Eagles, National Football League champions, alternated King Hill and Sonny Jurgensen at quarterback in their quest to find a field captain to replace the redoubtable Norman Van Brocklin who has retired. There was little to choose between them.

In the first period Jurgensen threw 27 yards to McDonald who caught the ball in the end zone with a jump that put him flat on his back. In the second period Hill tossed 24 yards to McDonald who dove for the ball and caught it at the goal line. Finally McDonald made a leaping catch of a 24 yard pass from Jurgensen in the last period for a touchdown, and Jurgensen also passed 25 to Pete Retzlaff in the first score.

The All-Stars opened the game with a bang. Bill Brown of Illinois returned the first kickoff 39 yards to the All-Star 46. Snead passed 42 yards to Aaron Thomas of Oregon State on the Eagles 12. But two plays later Brown fumbled and the All-Star hopes were dashed.

The eagles switched mostly to a ground attack in the second half and the tempo of the game slowed down.

Temper flared several times during the game, particularly at the end of the first half when the Eagle coaching staff helped restore order.

McDonald's last period touchdown, with four minutes to play, came at the end of an Eagle march that started on the 11. The Eagles went back to passing after the All-Stars showed surprising strength at stopping their ground game.

Of all the collegians, Kilmer, a 190-pounder who will report to the San Francisco 49ers, looked like the best bet to carve a spectacular professional career. He repeatedly shook off tacklers, coolly waved his receivers downfield, and threw with an unerring accuracy.

In the closing minutes of the game Kilmer sparked an attack with passes to Fred Arbanas of Michigan State, Bernie Casey of Bowling Green and Thomas that carried all the way from the All-Star 25 to the Eagles' 18 where Gregory caught the touchdown pass that saved the collegians from a whitewash.

Then with only seconds left and the Eagles sweeping down the field, Green jumped for one of Hill's passes, picked up splendid interference and galloped all 57 yards to score.

This ended the game on a note of high drama. Three of the score's six touchdowns were thus scored in the final four minutes.

TEN INNING BLAST

Blanchard Homer Gives Yanks Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Blanchard crashed a 10th inning home run with two mates aboard to give the New York Yankees an 8-5 victory over Minnesota Friday night after Harmon Killebrew's three-run homer in the eighth had forced the game into extra innings.

Bill Pleis, in relief of starter Camilo Pascual, was the mound when Blanchard connected for his 14th home run of the season with two out. Blanchard never should have come to bat in the 10th, but a mental lapse by Twins infielder Ted Lepcio gave the Yankees a life.

After Pleis had retired the first two batters, he walked Mickey Mantle. Yogi Berra singled off Killebrew's glove into right field. Mantle tried to go to third but was trapped between the bases when Lepcio took Bob Allison's throw from the outfield.

Mantle faked back to second and stopped. Lepcio started to throw, then held the ball as if confused. Mantle then broke for third and beat Lepcio's late throw to Pleis, covering the bag. Four pitches later, Blanchard reached the seats in the lower right field stands, scoring Mantle and Berra ahead of him.

The Yankees led 5-2 going into the eighth, three of the runs coming in the first inning when Roger Maris connected with a home run, his 41st of the season. Mantle went hitless but walked twice. The homer put Maris 19 games ahead of Babe Ruth's pace when the Babe hit his record 60 in 1927.

Texans Will Play Titans In Opener

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The American Football League opens its exhibition schedule Saturday at 9 p.m. EST, with the offensive-minded New York Titans and the Dallas Texans getting in the first flick.

The Texans were an easy mark for the Titans last year—the first season for the AFL. The New York team was the only one which beat Dallas twice, rolling up 78 points in the contests.

A large part of the Texans' defense can be credited to New York quarterback A. J. Dorow. Dorow threw for six touchdowns and ran two across himself. Which did not surprise Texas residents greatly since Dorow is coached by Sammy Baugh, a magic name in the state. Baugh set all sorts of passing records while at Texas Christian University and later with the Washington Redskins.

The Titans led both the AFL and the National Football League in points scored with 382 last year. They also allowed more than any team—399.

Reports from the Titans' training camp indicate the defense may be a little tighter this year. But the attack remains about the same. New York did not aggressively sign its draft choices during the winter and saw most of them melt away to the rival NFL and the Canadian League.

The Texans also expect to go with much the offensive thrust they held last year. Coach Hank Stram has added a new twist—his two top running stars, Abner Haynes and Johnny Robinson, have been working on running passes to loosen up the defense.

Dallas is the favorite to take the Western Division championship. It ended up second to the Los Angeles team which now has moved to San Diego.

The Titans are rated considerably lower in the Eastern Division but easily could be the surprise of the league if they can work out their defensive problems.

A crowd of about 17,000 is expected at Cobb Stadium, the principal Dallas high school football field.

The second exhibition game occurs Sunday when Houston plays at San Diego.

Venturi Captures Lead 2nd Sub-Par Round Leaves Ken All Alone

BALTIMORE (AP)—Ken Venturi, battling wind and rain five holes from home, stormed through Friday to hold the lead halfway through the 72-hole Eastern Open Golf Tournament with a score of 137, seven strokes below par.

The 30-year-old from San Francisco clipped three strokes off par through 13 holes before a deluge fell on the Pine Ridge course.

He conquered tricky winds and a muddy course to equal par the rest of the way for a 69 behind Thursday's opening 68.

Venturi's steady finish in the foul weather enabled him to slide a stroke in front of defending champion Gene Littler, Gay Brewer Jr. and Doug Sanders who finished their second rounds before the rains came.

Brewer and Sanders, par 72 shooters Thursday, went around in 66 the second time while Littler took 68, two better than his initial round.

Tony Lema, a fellow Californian who had shared the first round lead with Venturi, couldn't beat par on his second try and dropped three strokes off the pace.

Venturi, who is having one of his poorest pro years without a victory since last August, stopped play for 20 minutes on the 15th hole where the green was under water.

The weather change caught him shortly after he had poked in a birdie putt of 12 feet on the 11th hole and followed with another birdie on the 12th.

He went wrong only at the 190-yard third where he hit into the water and suffered a double bogey 5 on the par 3 hole. But he offset this trouble with birdies on the fourth, seventh and ninth.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Low scores in Friday's second round of the $35,000 Eastern Open:

Player	Score
Ken Venturi	68-69-137
Doug Sanders	72-66-138
Gay Brewer Jr.	73-66-139
Gene Littler	70-68-138
Don Bishop	72-67-139
Fred Hawkins	71-69-140
Joe Campbell	71-69-140
Don Bishop	70-70-140
Tony Lema	68-72-140
Tommy Jacobs	71-69-140

Cardinals Nip Phillies 9-8 On 9th Hits

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Julian Javier and Jim Schaffer hit two-run doubles to lead a 12-hit attack that gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 9-8 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Friday night.

Ernie Broglio, knocked out in the seventh, received relief help from Craig Anderson, and in the ninth, from Ed Bauta to register his eighth triumph in 18 decisions.

Don Ferrarese, first of four phils' pitchers, was charged with the loss, sixth in a row for the last-placers. Ferrarese is now 2-8.

Bauta halted a ninth-inning Phillie rally by retiring three men in a row with one run and runners at first and second.

Both teams staged three-run bursts in the first inning and the Cards moved ahead to stay with four runs in the third on Javier and Schaffer's hits.

Bill White's double, an infield out and a wild pitch gave the Cards a run in the sixth and the decisive run walked in in the seventh when Jack Baldschun passed pinch-hitter Stan Musial with the bases loaded.

Johnny Callison had 4-for-5 for the Phils, including his fifth home run, and scored three runs.

Alexandria Is Winner Over Northside, 6-0

DERIDDER, La. (AP)—Alexandria defeated West Monroe 6-0 Friday to gain the finals of the Louisiana Little Boys Baseball tournament here.

The championship game between Alexandria and New Orleans Airline Park was rained out. It was rescheduled for Saturday at 6 p.m.

New Orleans needs only one victory to clinch the title. If Alexandria wins, the two teams will meet again immediately afterwards.

Tech Captains Are Selected

RUSTON (Special)—Two linemen and a halfback, all seniors, will be tri-captains of the Louisiana Tech football team this fall.

Elected by their teammates were Herschel Vinyard, stand-out tackle from Olla; Don Tippit, veteran guard from Dexter, Mo.; and Jack Lestage, Lake Charles halfback.

All have lettered three times for the Bulldogs and Vinyard and Tippit have twice been selected to all-Gulf States conference teams.

Lestage hit the spotlight last season with an 86-yard punt return in the final minutes of the game for a touchdown to give Tech a 17-14 victory over previously unbeaten Southeastern Louisiana.

Maris Moves On

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Maris went 19 games up on Babe Ruth Friday night when he hit his 41st home run in the first inning on the New York-Minneapolis game.

The New Orleans team, composed of players from De La Salle High School, will meet Monroe—the north champion—for the state title. Dates and site for the best-of-three series will be announced later.

Montreuil had a no-hitter going for seven innings, but Houma's Ken Domingue tripled deep into centerfield to get Houma's first blow. He scored on an error for Houma's only run.

DeSiard Club Sets Tourney This Weekend

Bayou DeSiard Country Club's golf championship gets underway today with defending champion Jim Harper leading a large field into 36 holes of medal play over the DeSiard course.

Eighteen holes are on tap today, and 18 more are scheduled for Sunday.

Club Pro Winnie Cole said that players will make up their own foursomes today, but will be paired according to scores for Sunday's play.

Harper, who recently began playing again after a three-month lay-off, won last year's tourney, played over the 72-hole route, with a medal score of 231, one-over-par for four rounds at the par 70 club course.

Clyde Nash, Bill Jones, and Jack Rivers rounded out the top four in last year's meet, and all three are expected to be serious contenders this year.

NO Wins 6-1 For Southern Legion Crown

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Allen Montreuil hurled a two-hitter to give New Orleans a 6-1 victory over Houma and the south Louisiana American Legion baseball championship Friday night.

The New Orleans team, composed of players from De La Salle High School, will meet Monroe—the north champion—for the state title. Dates and site for the best-of-three series will be announced later.

Montreuil had a no-hitter going for seven innings, but Houma's Ken Domingue tripled deep into centerfield to get Houma's first blow. He scored on an error for Houma's only run.

Spahn Close With Aaron Homers, 2-1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Henry Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves smashed two 400-foot home runs Friday night, beating San Francisco 2-1 and giving southpaw Warren Spahn the 29th victory of his National League career.

Spahn gave up only five hits in registering his 11th victory against 12 defeats this year. It was a heart-breaking loss to the Giants' Mike McCormick (9-10), who allowed only six hits and struck out 12 Braves.

Orlando Cepeda tallied the Giants' run with his 30th homer in the fifth inning. Aaron tied the game at 1-1 with a line drive homer to left-center leading off the seventh inning and won it with his 29th home run, leading off the ninth.

Spahn now has defeated the Giants four times in five starts against them this season.

This latest Spahn victory came name despite striking out only one Giant. He also walked only one.

The Giants hit the ball off Spahn but he got great support from his outfield, especially from Aaron in right and Gino Cimoli in center. They each made seven putouts.

2 Races On Tap For Fans Today

Two important $100,000 races, the American Derby at Chicago's Arlington Park and the Sapling Stakes at Monmouth Park, N. J., headline the racing program Saturday along with the $50,000 Alabama Stakes at Saratoga.

Fred W. Hooper's Crozier and Calumet Farm's Beau Prince will renew an old rivalry in the 1 1/4-mile American Derby, where nine 9-year-olds were centered. C.T. Chenery's Sir Gaylord and an unbeaten upstart, Battle Joined from the Cain Hay Stable, head a field of 11 in the 6-furlong Sapling for 2-year-olds.

The 1st Alabama brings the long-awaited meeting between Brookmeade Stable's Bowl of Flowers, champion 2-year-old filly of 1960, and Darby Dan Farm's Primonetta. Six 3-year-old fillies were named for the 1 1/4-mile race.

In addition Del Mar offers the $20,000 San Diego Handicap, a 1 1/16-mile affair with 10 entries headed by the Greenville Farm's First Balcony under 122 pounds.

Crozier was the shadow of Carry Back, Kentucky Derby, Preakness, Flamingo and Florida Derby winner, early in the season. Beau Prince was rated a top Derby threat until he was hurt. Crozier is the probable favorite. Another threat is Fourth Estate Stable's Editorialist, who ran second back of Globemaster in the Arlington Classic where Crozier was third and Beau Prince fourth.

With nine going, the Chicago race will gross $121,900 with the winner taking $74,400.

Sir Gaylord has won four straight, including the Tyro, National Stallion and Great American Stakes. He's currently the

Fullmer Favored To Defeat Cuban

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—NBA middleweight champion Gene Fullmer Friday remained the general favorite to turn back the challenge of knockout specialist Florentino Fernandez but the Cuban invader was given a puncher's chance to score an upset.

The 15-round bout goes on Saturday night in Ogden Stadium, rain or shine, with a national television audience tuned in via ABC at 9 o'clock, EST.

The fight has its international aspects and Fullmer's manager, Marv Jensen, declared: "It is not incorrect to say Gene is fighting for the free world."

The 25-year-old Cuban left-hander has signed a stipulation that he will not leave the United States for at least 90 days in the event he wins the title, staying on to give the West Jordan, Utah, mauler a chance to regain the National Boxing Association portion of the title.

This will be 30-year-old Gene's sixth defense of the crown he won from Carmen Basilio in San Francisco Aug. 23, 1959.

Crossett Man Is Replaced As Policeman

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — City policeman Vernon L. Seaman is no longer associated with the police department.

Mayor Vaskell "Snooks" Carter, who swept back into office last week by a majority of almost two-to-one, said, "It was not true that he was fired."

Seaman, who was cited for outstanding citizenship by the Crosssett Junior Chamber of Commerce last January, said, "On Friday, I was met by Chief Barrett and he asked for my resignation."

"He has resigned and is now taking his two weeks' vacation," Carter said, adding, "I understand that Chief Barrett accepted his resignation as of Saturday night, that his vacation started then and that he is not coming back."

Seaman said he asked Barrett why he should resign, "and he said he had several reasons for wanting me off the force, but didn't name a specific one."

Seaman is now looking for work in nearby towns.

According to Carter, the city has hired a replacement, Clinton Tew, of Dermott, who has had about four years experience in police work.

For the past year or more, Seaman has led the city police department in the number of arrests made, according to the monthly report issued by the city police judge.

He has 21 years of law enforcement experience behind him, is a retired marine, and has been an active worker in youth development.

He was responsible for setting up the Crosssett Police Athletic League.

No More Votes On Off Years, Demos Decide

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — The Democratic Central Committee has decided the off-year Democratic primary election held here last week will be the last one for Crosssett and Ashley County.

The committee, meeting in Hamburg, to certify Tuesday's election results, voted to discontinue primary elections in the off-years in the future unless candidates secure a 20 per cent endorsement of the electorate for primary elections.

A full quorum of the committee was present at the meeting and agreed on the action.

According to a spokesman the move was taken to save election expenses. In the future candidates for city offices will run only in the general elections held in November.

In the even years a primary election will still be held for state, county and township offices as well as for those city offices that come up in the even years.

The offices that come up for election in the odd years, however, will not have to run in a primary unless a candidate secures the names of 20 per cent of the qualified voters on a petition and presents it to the Democratic Committee.

Crossett Man Is Replaced As Policeman

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — City policeman Vernon L. Seaman is no longer associated with the police department.

Mayor Vaskell "Snooks" Carter, who swept back into office last week by a majority of almost two-to-one, said, "It was not true that he was fired."

Seaman, who was cited for outstanding citizenship by the Crossett Junior Chamber of Commerce last January, said, "On Friday, I was met by Chief Barrett and he asked for my resignation."

"He has resigned and is now taking his two weeks' vacation," Carter said, adding, "I understand that chief Barrett accepted his resignation as of Saturday night, that his vacation started then and that he is not coming back."

Seaman said he asked Barrett why he should resign, "and he said he had several reasons for wanting me off the force, but didn't name a specific one."

Seaman is now looking for work in nearby towns.

According to Carter, the city has hired a replacement, Clinton Tew, of Dermott, who has had about four years experience in police work.

For the past year or more, Seaman has lead the city police department in the number of arrests made, according to the monthly report issued by the city police judge.

He has 21 years of law enforcement experience behind him, is a retired marine, and has been an active worker in youth development.

He was responsible for setting up the Crossett Police Athletic League.

No More Votes On Off Years, Demos Decide

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — The Democratic Central Committee has decided the off-year Democratic primary election held here last week will be the last one for Crossett and Ashley County.

The committee, meeting in Hamburg to certify Tuesday's election results, voted to discontinue primary elections in the off-years in the future unless candidates secure a 20 per cent endorsement of the electorate for primary elections.

A full quorum of the committee was present at the meeting and agreed on the action.

According to a spokesman the move was taken to save election expenses. In the future candidates for city offices will run only in the general elections held in November.

In the even years a primary election will still be held for state, county and township offices as well as for those city offices that come up in the even years.

The offices that come up for election in the odd years, however, will not have to run in a primary unless a candidate secures the names of 20 per cent of the qualified voters on a petition and presents it to the Democratic Committee.

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: The letter from the Phi Beta Kappa wife with the dirty neck who thought housework was for horses, I omitted to write.

I'm distressed by the vast numbers of young people who share his views. My niece sits around reading Melville and Kant while the ash trays spill over. When her chemist husband comes home for dinner he brings it with him—in a paper bag. He also changes the baby and straightens up the place.

Our son is engaged to the same type and we fear for the future. Don't you think a girl who spends four years in college should be taught how to make a bed, boil potatoes and fix a decent pot of coffee? Why don't they learn practical things in college instead of a lot of nonsense? —DOWN TO EARTH

Dear Down: Higher education has a nobler purpose than teaching the nuts and bolts of home making. If a girl doesn't know how to make a bed or boil potatoes by the time she gets to college, her mother goofed.

No wife should read all day and ignore the fundamental domestic responsibilities. Such a wife probably had a mother who was either crazy-clean or a four-door slob. Now about that husband — any man who would bring home his dinner in a paper sack night after night doesn't deserve anything better.

Dear Ann: How do you tell the girl you plan to marry that you want to be her protector, her advisor, and her moral and physical strength?

Mary is five years younger than I am and at first I thought her stubbornness was due to her youth, but I'm beginning to wonder if she will ever outgrow it. Almost every suggestion I make is met with fierce opposition. She says I'm domineering and dictatorial. Every time we have a fight (which is often) she apologizes and says I was right. I was headstrong, at 18, too, but I "did" learn to accept guidance. Do you think she will? —C. R.

Dear C. R.: Wake up and smell the coffee, Mister. You can't force "protection, advice and moral and physical strength" on a girl who doesn't want it. And Mary doesn't want it.

What you consider virtues she views as vindictiveness. You need a more pliable Galatea, Pygmalion. Give up.

Dear Ann: The smut you see in this envelope speaks for itself. I'm ashamed to tell you I found it in my husband's chest of drawers, under the paper lining.

Why would a happily married man and the father of three children spend money on such trash? Please notice the order blanks attached to this. Somebody must be making a fortune. The pictures that sell for 50 cents can't cost more than a few pennies to print.

Shall I speak to him? Is this illegal? Please give me some advice. I'm very upset. —NO NAME

Dear No Name: Tell your husband that if he insists on degrading himself he'd better make sure the kids don't find the rubbish.

Companies that sell pornography usually walk the legal tightrope. All trash that comes in the mail should be sent to the postal authorities for investigation. This is a lucrative business and it will continue to flourish so long as sick people continue to support it.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for "Ann Landers' booklets." "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Saturday, Sunday Hours Are Worst

BATON ROUGE (UPI) — Two cars are approaching on a dry, straight, and level highway. It is between 6 and 8 p.m. on a Saturday or Sunday.

These were the most frequent driving conditions in fatal accidents investigated by Louisiana State police for the first six months this year. The typical victim: male, between 25 and 34, with 11 or more years driving experience.

Col. Murphy Roden, director of the department of public safety, said the ideal driving conditions described cause drivers to become overconfident.

"When driving conditions are hazardous, drivers have a tendency to become more alert and drive more carefully," he said. "But, even though conditions were ideal, our analysis of the accidents reveal that it was most likely that at least one of the drivers involved in a fatal accident was violating the law."

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

The baby who has been fed on self-demand will, by the time he is two months of age, have reached some predictable schedule. This may not be exactly the same as that of the baby next door, but it will be one that pleases this individual baby.

A baby who is well-fed, will seldom want more than four feedings in a day, five at most. These will come in somewhat this order:

Between 5 and 7 a.m., the first breast or bottle feeding of the day. This will be followed by a short nap.

ORANGE JUICE

Between 9 and 10:30 he will be awake again and can be given his orange juice and vitamin drops. He may take from one to two ounces of the first, undiluted. The drops, advised by the doctor, will be squeezed into the baby's mouth directed toward the cheek. This prevents his choking on them.

Within the next half hour or hour he will have his second feeding of the day, preceded by his cleansing bath. Wash his face with clean water and dry. Soap his head and rub vigorously, then up and down and rub his head and lift him into the tub, elevating his head above the water level with a large, folded bath towel. Then let him lie there and splash himself all over with clear water. He'll love it and so will you.

Unless he has graduated to solid foods, of which he will get a few teaspoonsful, probably of cereal, this next feeding is also a breast or bottle one.

Now will come his long sleep of the day, from which he will awaken about 2:30 or 3 p.m. If he is very fussy, he may have a half a bottle of milk or a short nursing. If not, he may be satisfied with a drink of water or maybe an ounce or so of orange juice.

EXERCISE TIME

This is a good time to put him down on the floor on a soft pad, and let him lie and dig in his heels and push himself about, or wave his hands in the air, or look at brightly-colored objects within eye-range or listen to soft, harmonious music. All of these will amuse and tire him and thus put him in the mood for his long night's sleep.

Try another sponge bath if it is warm, then just fresh diapers, plus a thin nightgown if necessary.

and his last meal of the day, from 5 to 6 p.m. The chances are that at the tender age he won't go all through the night without waking (though he may) but if he does waken it is better to feed him at the parents' bedtime than to wait for a middle-of-the-night feeding. It all depends upon the baby and how he reacts to this parental scheduling.

If you are having trouble helping your baby establish a schedule, you'll find help in Mrs. Eldred's 10-cent booklet, "The First Six Months." You may obtain it by sending 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: The letter from the Phi Beta Kappa wife with the dirty neck who thought housework was for horses tempted me to write.

I'm distressed by the vast numbers of young people who share his views. My niece sits around reading Melville and Kant while the ash trays spill over. When her chemist husband comes home for dinner he brings it with him—in a paper bag. He also changes the baby and straightens up the place.

Our son is engaged to the same type and we fear for the future. Don't you think a girl who spends four years in college should be taught how to make a bed, boil potatoes and fix a decent pot of coffee? Why don't they learn practical things in college instead of a lot of nonsense? —DOWN TO EARTH

Dear Down: Higher education has a nobler purpose than teaching the nuts and bolts of home making. If a girl doesn't know how to make a bed or boil potatoes by the time she gets to college, her mother goofed.

No wife should read all day and ignore the fundamental domestic responsibilities. Such a wife probably had a mother who was either crazy-clean or a four-door slob. Now about that husband — any man who would bring home his dinner in a paper sack night after night doesn't deserve anything better.

Dear Ann: How do you tell the girl you plan to marry that you want to be her protector, her advisor, and her moral and physical strength?

Mary is five years younger than I am and at first I thought her stubbornness was due to her youth, but I'm beginning to wonder if she will ever outgrow it.

Almost every suggestion I make is met with fierce opposition. She says I'm domineering and dictatorial. Every time we have a fight (which is often) she apologizes and says I was right. I was headstrong, at 18, too; but I "did" learn to accept guidance. Do you think she will? —C. R.

Dear C. R.: Wake up and smell the coffee, Mister. You can't force "protection, advice and moral and physical strength" on a girl who doesn't want it. And Mary doesn't want it.

What you consider virtues she views as vindictiveness. You need a more pliable Galatea, Pygmalion. Give up.

Dear Ann: The snut you see in this envelope speaks for itself. I'm ashamed to tell you I found it in my husband's chest of drawers, under the paper lining.

Why would a happily married man and the father of three children spend money on such trash? Please notice the order blanks attached to this junk. Somebody must be making a fortune. The pictures that sell for 50 cents can't cost more than a few pennies to print.

Shall I speak to him? Is this illegal? Please give me some advice. I'm very upset. —NO NAME

Dear No Name: Tell your husband you found his play toys. Let him know that if he insists on degrading himself he'd better make sure the kids don't find the rubbish.

Companies that sell pornography usually walk the legal tight-rope. All trash that comes in the mail should be sent to the postal authorities for investigation. This is a lucrative business and it will continue to flourish so long as sick people continue to support it.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for "Ann Landers'" booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Saturday, Sunday

Hours Are Worst

BATON ROUGE (UPI) — Two cars are approaching on a dry, straight, and level highway. It is between 6 and 8 p.m. on a Saturday or Sunday.

These were the most frequent driving conditions in fatal accidents investigated by Louisiana State police for the first six months this year. The typical victim: male, between 25 and 34, with 11 or more years driving experience.

Col. Murphy Roden, director of the department of public safety, said the ideal driving conditions described cause drivers to become overconfident.

"When driving conditions are hazardous, drivers have a tendency to become more alert and drive more carefully," he said.

"But, even though conditions were ideal, our analysis of the accidents reveal that it was most likely that at least one of the drivers involved in a fatal accident was violating the law."

(Dorothy Kilgallen is on vacation. Her guest columnist today is the comedian J. G. Gerson.)

Because I'm presently making a couple of movies in a row people remark: Ah, Gerson got religion and has "gone Hollywood" at last. Nothing's further from the truth.

True, I'm in pictures—but I'm BACK in pictures, they should say. I'm writing this in Paris, not Hollywood, where I'm making "Gigot," my own story, which, naturally, stars The Great Gerson. Just before this I played an absorbing cameo part right there in New York in "The Hustler" with Paul Newman and Piper Laurie. When I get back home in September, who knows... I'll either do "Jumbo" with Doris Day, another of my own, or the Laurel and Hardy story with Art Carney for the screen. For the record I went Hollywood half a lifetime ago!

Actually I like making movies. Anything in the entertainment field affords kicks to me. Most people look at me as a television guy who did nothing but act funny Saturday nights. They overlook some 28 albums of music, radio, the musicals I've been in on Broadway, the serious dramas on TV, talk shows and, to be sure, comedies. Now hear this: I've been in pictures. Yes indeed.

When I was a kid of 25 I had my first Hollywood beckon and I went. That was more than 20 years ago. I went to Hollywood right after Jack Warner caught my act at the 18 Club on 52nd Street. After he watched me cutting up Warner gave me a contract calling for $250, a week with the usual options.

En route to California I had the usual layover in Chicago while my bags went on through. I went to a joint I knew and there were Danny Thomas and Red Skelton and Jack Leonard and a couple of other clowns and I hooked up

Area Girl Goes To State Meet: Attending Camp

FERRIDAY (Special) — The State FFA Executive Council meeting in Alexandria was attended by Miss Johnnie Ruth Beasley, state FFA historian.

Also attending was Miss Beasley's mother, Mrs. Lucille J. Beasley, who is Johnnie Ruth's advisor.

Purpose of the meet was to plan the State FFA convention in Nov. 3 and 4. Guest speaker was Mrs. Billie Davis. Theme was "4-1-ers—Weight Your Values."

Johnnie Ruth is chairman of the state honorary membership committee and was chosen to receive honorary membership this year. She attended the National FFA convention at St. Louis, Mo. in July.

She represented Louisiana in the roll call and served as an usher for the sixth session.

She is now attending the annual camp being held at Camp Miniwanca, Mich. She will return home on Aug. 13.

Watkins Given Red Cross Post: Drive In March

FERRIDAY (Special) — Doug Watkins, Concordia Parish school supervisor, is the new chairman of the fund-raising campaign for the parish.

Annual drive will begin in March.

Watkins succeeds Ferriday school faculty member, Ben L. Green Jr., who asked to be relieved of his duties after his appointment as principal of Ferriday Elementary School.

Watkins coached and taught at Ferriday High School from 1955 to 1960.

He received his M. Ed. degree from East Texas State College of Commerce, Tex.

with them for a couple of hours. We had a ball. I blew all my advance loot with this wonderful camaraderie and what I had left was my half stub to Hollywood and just enough scratch for one of those boxes of candy bars. Every time the porter came through the train ringing the dinner gong I had a candy bar. By the time I got to Hollywood I was full of pimples and despair.

There, the only rub was that Warner forgot to tell the little Warnerlings that I was coming. Nobody knew I was there. After all, who was I? A lout from Brooklyn who worked joints in New York and Astoria. They assumed I was just the fat son of Jimmy Gleason come home.

Anyhow, I made pictures. Watch the late shows on TV and you'll catch me if I'm not sliced for the commercials. I'm the stout altar boy who plays gangsters, sailors, short order cooks, and one time I was Betty Grable's manager. Believe me, I was glad to manage anybody by that time, rather than explain over again to the producers that I was a comic mostly.

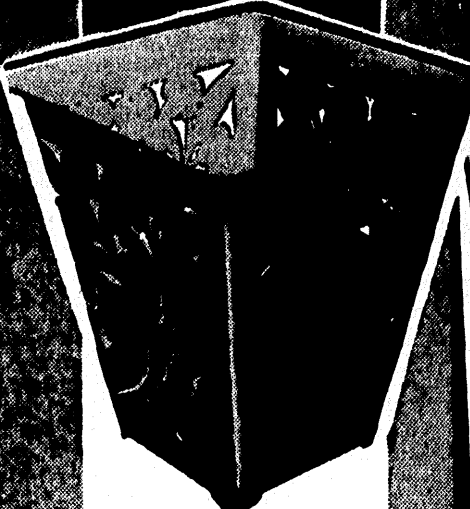

Two of my best pals, Jack Haley and Jack Oakie, starred in "Navy Blues." In it I had lines like, "Hey, let's go aboard," and then I'd be run over by an avalanche of people storming up the gangplank. On deck I'd say, "Let's go ashore," and in the rush to the dock I'd go overboard and everybody'd laugh. Not everybody: I didn't. That was the kind of big parts I got. Putting it succinctly Gleason had a long wait before he got to pul The Great in front of Gleason!

To keep from losing touch I went to work in a place called Slapsy Maxie's. Yes, the fighter, and he got in the act with me. The Hollywood people who paid me to work by day came to pay to see me work as a comic by night. They all said I was just great, that I was a natural for pictures — and then by the next day, like Chaplin's millionaire, they'd sobered up and felt differently.

Slapsy's was a little like the Club 18 with a touch of the Miami Club, the old Newark bucket of blood. People like Martha Raye, Ben Blue, Rags Ragland, Joe Frisco, Peter Lawford, Gene Kelly, would perform too. Oh, it was gorgeous!

The shows we put on were studies in lack of restraint. We did an untidy burlesque; we squirted seltzer, threw pies and sometimes people. The customers happened to be the highest-priced movie talent in the world and we either walked all over them, pushed them into the act — and we never put on the same show twice. I made funnies, did imitations and played a crazy trumpet myself. By day I'd work at making movies and at Maxie's at night I'd work some more, just as hard. I'd discovered long ago that I had an inexhaustible stamina and the kind of mental makeup that made for the perpetual motion in performance. I played at a hard pace but lived good and got along on a little sleep. I still do. That's my way of playing life's melody.

Then why, you say, after 20 years do we find The Greatest back in movies? Well, I always wanted to do films, good ones. I'd written a story called "Gigot," which means leg of lamb and is about a picturesque deaf mute who might have ambled his way through the Montmartre in the 1920s. He's a big, cumbersome derelict but he has a divine touch as far as people are concerned and those who rub up against him are rewarded in amazing and gratifying fashion. Oh yes, I wrote the music too. And I think you know I've already written our Academy Award acceptance speeches for all categories in French. Brigitte Bardot helped me.

I'd discovered long ago that I had an inexhaustible stamina and the kind of mental makeup that made for the perpetual motion in performance. I played at a hard pace but lived good and got along on a little sleep. I still do. That's my way of playing life's melody.

Then why, you say, after 20 years do we find The Greatest back in movies? Well, I always wanted to do films, good ones. I'd written a story called "Gigot," which means leg of lamb and is about a picturesque deaf mute who might have ambled his way through the Montmartre in the 1920s. He's a big, cumbersome derelict but he has a divine touch as far as people are concerned and those who rub up against him are rewarded in amazing and gratifying fashion. Oh yes, I wrote the music too. And I think you know I've already written our Academy Award acceptance speeches for all categories... in French. Brigitte Bardot helped me.

Unsolved Murder Case Is Reopened

STONY BROOK, N.Y. (UPI)—One of the nation's famous unsolved disappearance cases was reopened Friday when Long Island police began to survey an overgrown cornfield on a tip that it was the burial place of a society matron missing for 24 years.

The disappearance of wealthy Mrs. Alice McDonnell Parsons on Aug. 9, 1937, from her husband's 22-acre estate here was almost forgotten by local residents. Then, earlier this week, the Post Office received a letter postmarked Massena, N.Y., and addressed to "Mrs. Parsons Brother Stony Brook Long Island."

Postal authorities opened the letter and found a crude map of the Parsons estate with a big "X" marked in the northwest corner of a cornfield behind the house. The note said: "Mrs. Parsons brother you will find the remains of your sister in the cornfield in back of the house."

Suffolk County Police Sgt. Walter Brown said the present occupant of the estate identified the field, which is not overgrown with scrub oak. Police are trying to re-establish its outlines and mark the general area of the "X" for excavation this weekend.

Mrs. Parsons, member of a prominent Brooklyn family and niece of President Timothy Williams of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, was 38 when she disappeared. She lived with her Yale-educated husband, a connection of the Pratt Oil family, a housekeeper, Russian-born Mrs. Anna Kuryanova, and Mrs. Kuryanova's son Roy.

On June 9, 1937, she drove her husband, who raised squabs for the market, to a nearby railway station so he could go to New York. Mrs. Kuryanova told police Mrs. Parsons returned to the house but left soon after with a middle-aged couple in a black sedan, saying she was going to show them a neighboring estate in which Mrs. Parsons had a one-third interest.

No one else saw the car or the couple. Mrs. Parsons never returned. The first policeman to enter the Parsons house found a bottle of chloroform near the body of a dead gosling. The bottle, which was purchased by Parsons for killing geese, later disappeared.

Investigators learned that the Parsons, who were married 12 years, had legally adopted Mrs. Kuryanova's son and that the housekeeper called herself Mrs. Cooper - Parsons. Mrs. Parsons wrote a new will 22 days before her disappearance leaving the twice-divorced housekeeper $10,000 and the boy $5,000.

A ransom note demanding $25,000 later turned up in the back seat of Parsons' car, which had been previously searched and kept locked. The directions in the note were carried out, but no one appeared to receive the money.

Bond Forfeited In Gambling Case Yesterday

A 36-year-old West Monroe man, charged with operating an illegal gambling machine, forfeited bond of $190 Friday in Monroe city court.

H. C. Deal of 300 Chickasaw was allegedly operating a machine that has not been seen in this area. It is called a horoscope machine. Resembling a stamp machine, the horoscope took in approximately $250 while paying out only $180.

Chief James Kelly explained that to operate the gambling machine one placed a quarter in the slot and was given in turn a small colored ticket containing a "prediction" for a horoscope date. Underneath the prediction would be a place for small stars.

A person whose horoscope ticket carried one star won $1 which was allegedly paid to him or her across the bar. If the ticket had two stars, the player won $5 and if the ticket bore five stars, the person won 10 dollars.

William C. Wayne, Negro, of Marion was fined $100 or three months in jail for possession of a concealed weapon. Wayne also drew a $25 penalty for drunkenness.

In another court action, it became apparent that some Monroe motorists were making a practice of driving too close behind other vehicles as two drivers were fined $25 for accidents resulting from "bumper riding."

Otherwise, Friday court was fairly light with fines recorded for overparking, speeding, running red lights, running stop signs, and public drunkenness.

Parents Asked To Keep Kids From Machines

FERRIDAY (Special) — Parents have been requested to prevent their children from following machines fogging local areas to kill insects.

Alderman David O'Neil, who writes a weekly column for the Concordia Sentinel, said in the latest issue, "Last night when the fogging machine came by our house in Vidalia at least a dozen youngsters were following it."

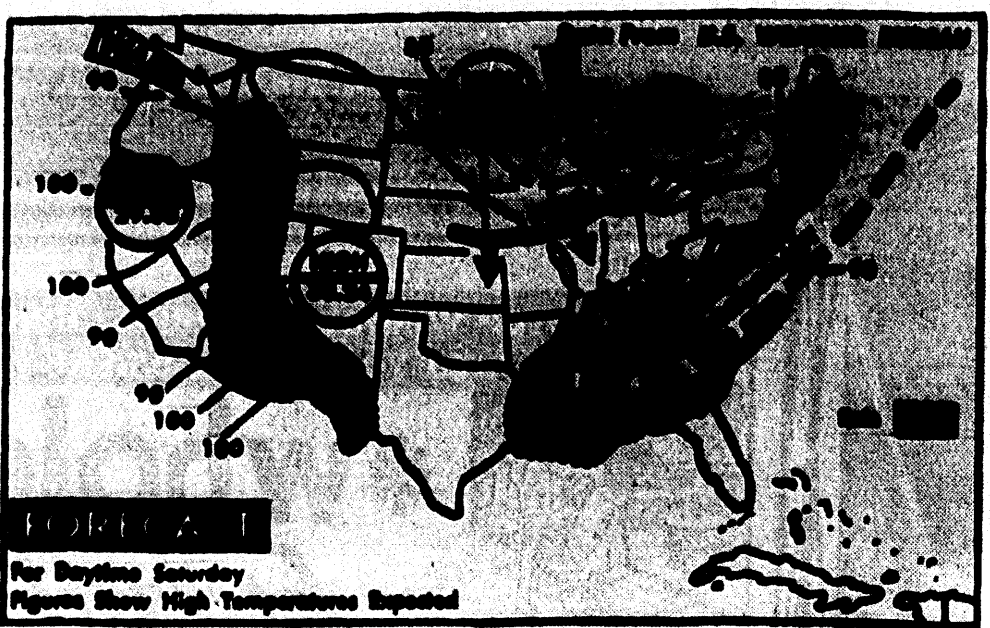

"Some were running, some were riding bicycles, they were all over the street, in and out of the fog."

"This scene is the same in Natchez and Ferriday and town officials continue to plead for cooperation from parents to prevent this situation."

"In the first place," O'Neil said, "this fog is composed of DDT or some other insecticide and diesel fuel. Its purpose is to kill mosquitoes and other insects. This stuff will not endanger the children's health, but it certainly doesn't contribute anything."

"The big danger is traffic. A fogging machine, a street full of children and automobiles make a dangerous situation."

"Only you as a parent can make this a safe operation."

SHOWERS ARE expected Saturday from north and mid Atlantic coastal states into southern states and portions of Tennessee and lower Mississippi valley. Showers also are due in Plateau and southern Plains. It will be warmer in southern Plains and in eastern half of nation. It will continue warm in Pacific northwest and be cooler in northern Plains and Great Lakes area. (AP Wire-photo Map)

Rusk Is Hopeful For Negotiations

PARIS (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Friday that he and the foreign ministers of Britain, France and West Germany would seek an approach to possible Berlin negotiations on a basis which would preserve freedom, democracy and understanding.

"We will do our best to find the answer to these problems so as to preserve the liberty and peace of the Western world," Rusk told newsmen on his arrival from Washington for talks on Berlin here this weekend.

He made it clear that the West would talk with the Soviet Union—but only in an absence of threats or pressure. The West, he declared, holds World War II victors' rights to garrison West Berlin.

Rusk's statement coincided with a declaration by the Soviet government that it also was willing to shift toward negotiation.

The basic problem faced by the four Western spokesmen—Rusk, Britain's Lord Home, France's Maurice Couve de Murville and West Germany's Heinrich von Brentano—is the preservation of freedom of the 2.25 million West Berliners isolated behind the Iron Curtain.

Lord Home said he was "quite sure these meetings will be useful and we will be able to agree on whatever action that might be appropriate."

ADOPT RESOLUTION
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Friday unanimously adopted a resolution praising J. Edgar Hoover on his 37th anniversary as director of the FBI.

Protests Ignored By East Germans

BERLIN (AP)—The East German Communists, ignoring Western protests, imposed harsh new penalties Friday on East Berliners who commute to work in West Berlin.

The commuters now must pay the Red regime nearly five times more for rent, electricity, gas water and other public services than their stay-at-home neighbors pay. The Communist device to bring this about is a requirement that they settle their bills in West German marks, which are much more valuable than Communist currency.

East Berlin's Communist city government issued the order Friday. Less than 24 hours before, the three Western sector commandants in Berlin protested to their Soviet counterpart against similar measures aimed at helping stop the drain on East Germany's manpower through the refugee flow to West Berlin.

Soviet Embassy officials would not answer questions about the protest. The official Soviet position is that such matters are the exclusive concern of the East German Communist regime.

This latest defiance of the West came amid several moves in the cold war over Berlin: Soviet notes speaking of readiness to negotiate were published; British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said the West must be ready to talk but can never abandon the two million free West Berliners; West German Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss said West Germany is going to increase its military strength to meet the Berlin crisis.

The East Germans have been putting pressure on the commu-

ers for some weeks. Some have been put out of their homes. They have been forbidden to buy such things as TV sets and motorcycles. Their children's schooling has been threatened.

The Western commandants objected on humanitarian grounds to the anticommunist actions already taken and said they violated agreements the Soviets have made.

Parsons and Mrs. Kupryanova moved to California in 1937 and were married in Hollister, Calif., in 1940. They now live in Carmel, Calif. Passman Is Cited Over Aid Fights

(Editor's Note: The primary reason for the Administration's all-out fight to transfer a substantial portion of foreign aid funds from Congressional appropriations to a procedure for direct borrowing from the Treasury — "backdoor spending" — is because of the pruning — knife which is regularly used by Louisiana's Congressman Otto E. Passman to cut "fat" from the program. This issue is discussed in detail in current issue of the New York Herald Tribune and the Washington Evening Star. The paragraphs below are excerpts from articles written by Herland — Tribune Staff Writer Rowland Evans, Jr., and Star Staff Writer J. A. O'Leary.)

From the New York Herald Tribune:

"High stakes ride on President Kennedy's crucial decision not to compromise his request for powers to pay for long-term economic aid by Treasury financing."

"If successful ... the President will have ended the extraordinary influence of Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., over (the total level of foreign aid spending)."

"The President is now convinced that ... avoiding the bitter struggle each year with Rep. Passman's House Appropriations subcommittee, which ... has held important control over the level of foreign aid, outweighs what he hopes will be the short-term disadvantages of a partisan vote in both Houses ..."

From the Washington Evening Star:

"Every year for more than a decade Congress has gone through two separate foreign aid fights, first on the authorization bill and later on the appropriation bill. The first bill merely fixes ceilings beyond which the appropriations may not go for each type of aid."

"But the Appropriations Committees are under no compulsion to go up to the ceiling, and the record shows that they usually make substantial cuts in the authorized figures. This is especially true in the House, where Representative Passman, Democrat of Louisiana, an opponent of heavy foreign aid spending, is in the strategic position of chairman of the subcommittee on foreign aid spending."

"This record of reduced annual appropriations is believed to be the primary reason for the Administration's desire to save the long-term borrowing authority in its new bill."

"If the President wins his fight for long-term borrowing there would still be two annual battles over about half (or more) of the foreign aid money, but the economic loans (credits) would escape the pruning knife of Mr. Passman and other economy advocates on the Appropriations Committee."

NEW PENALTIES

Protests Ignored By East Germans

BERLIN (AP)—The East German Communists, ignoring Western protests, imposed harsh new penalties Friday on East Berliners who commute to work in West Berlin.

The commuters now must pay the Red regime nearly five times more for rent, electricity, gas, water and other public services than their stay-at-home neighbors pay. The Communist device to bring this about is a requirement that they settle their bills in West German marks, which are much more valuable than Communist currency.

East Berlin's Communist city government issued the order Friday. Less than 24 hours before, the three Western sector commandants in Berlin protested to their Soviet counterpart against similar measures aimed at helping stop the drain on East Germany's manpower through the refugee flow to West Berlin.

Soviet Embassy officials would not answer questions about the protest. The official Soviet position is that such matters are the exclusive concern of the East German Communist regime.

This latest defiance of the West came amid several moves in the cold war over Berlin: Soviet notes speaking of readiness to negotiate were published; British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said the West must be ready to talk but can never abandon the two million free West Berliners; West German Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss said West Germany is going to increase its military strength to meet the Berlin crisis.

The East Germans have been putting pressure on the commu-

Aid Appeal Brings Plenty Volunteers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — During the past ten days the messages have poured into the White House from a prayerful Cape Cod woman, from veterans offering to fight again, from Americans volunteering to pay higher taxes.

About 20,000 have been delivered since the night of July 25 when President Kennedy, reporting on the Berlin crisis, appealed to the people for "your help... your suggestions... and above all, your prayers."

One of the most touching came from the woman on Cape Cod, where the President has spent some of his happiest moments.

"As I watched you," she wrote, "I wondered where our boy of a few months ago was. The broad smile, the swaggering gait, the tousled mop, the coat tails flying, and the hand in the pocket, all gone, and before us stands a man, with a grim determination, a troubled look, and, God love you, the weight of the world..." White House clerks said the volume of mail was the biggest to reach them in so short a time for at least several years. The great majority supported the President, his firm stand on Berlin and his announcement of a military buildup.

The latest count showed 15,000 letters and 3,400 telegrams backing the President. Against him were 1,000 letters and 150 telegrams. A sampling of 50 letters, in the same pro and con ratio as the total, gave this cross-section:

A Seattle couple wrote: "We admire the firm stand you took against Communism and especially your determination not to back down in Berlin. We can bear the sacrifices and the taxes much easier than we could bear the tyranny of the Communists..."

But an upstate New Yorker declared: "Unfortunately, I don't believe you have the capabilities or experience to handle the problems with which you are now faced. You asked for suggestions. I suggest that you start to immediately surround yourself with capable executives instead of political payoffs..."

A Californian: "We must take a stand somewhere for the things we believe in... I am a veteran of World War II and 35 years old, but sir, I am ready to serve again in any capacity." A Jamestown, N.Y., woman: "My heart went out to you, Mr. President, as you wiped your brow, showing very plainly the difficulty task of sending a message to the nation to make us understand the crisis we face. I would be proud, should I be on call, to render my services once again for my country, as my late husband, Captain did in World War Two."

Civil Defense

Representative Is Named Here

Captain J. B. Scruggs, appointed state civil defense representative for Monroe and Northeast Louisiana, is a veteran of 25-years Air Force duty.

Currently in New Orleans for briefing sessions at Jackson Barracks CD headquarters, he has just returned from a post with combat operations of the Strategic Air Command's 68th bombardment wing at Chennault AFB.

Captured by the Japanese after helping defend Corregidor and the Bataan Peninsula during early World War II, he was held in two prison camps and made to do forced labor in Japanese copper mines.

One of 50 men promoted from non-coms to first lieutenant by direct commission in SAC in April, 1951, he has been stationed at Carswell AFB, Tex., Chanute Field, Ill., Ellington AFB, Tex., Mather AFB, Calif., McConnell AFB, Kansas, and has been at Chennault near Lake Charles for two years.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Young are suing the city and its insurance company, Fireman's Fund Insurance Co.

Mrs. Young says that she suffered serious and permanent injuries to her left foot, ankle and lower left leg, and that she has been disabled.

Delegates, Dag Discuss Bizerte

RDELEGATES RDAG 4 UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson of the United States and Monim Slim of Tunisia paid successive calls on U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld today to discuss the French-Tunisian deadlock over Bizerte.

Stevenson told reporters he was hopeful there will be some developments so that it will be unnecessary to hold a special session of the General Assembly on the issue.

Slim, Tunisian envoy to the U.N. Security Council, declined to make any statement.

Marshal Orders Man Off Land; Area Rift Boils

JONESVILLE (Special) — A controversy over proposed location of locks and dam in connection with the 9-foot channel on the Black and Ouachita Rivers has reached the boiling point. It was disclosed Friday that a Catahoula Parish property owner whose land borders the Catahoula National Wildlife Refuge area in LaSalle Parish near Catahoula Lake, has been served papers by a U. S. marshal ordering the property owner to move a fence from acreage the marshal claims is on federal property.

The Federal Wildlife Department is opposing the location south of Jonesville which has been sponsored by more than 25 resolutions by police juries, school boards and civic clubs in LaSalle, Catahoula and Concordia parishes. The land owner, who has not been identified, said that the property line, which is also the parish line of Catahoula and LaSalle parishes, was surveyed in 1929 by a civil engineer.

The removal order names the citizen, his wife, and all his children. It involves about 12 chain lengths of fence. "We feel that the engineer should have been right in 1929, but the federal marshal says their surveyor claims part of our fence is on their land," the owner said.

The owner wrote to a federal judge, but no report on a reply has been made. About the same time, according to residents of Catahoula Lake area where the federal government recently acquired 5,300 acres of land for the wildlife refuge, the federal officers also served notice on all residents who had camps and buildings within the refuge to move their property off the land.

According to a news release from Walter Gresh, regional director of the U. S. Wildlife division in Atlanta, Ga., the federal government plans to acquire an additional adjoining acreage making a total of 8,752 acres to be used as a wildlife refuge. Some of the property owners said the government had offered from $300 to $350 per acre for the land they hope to acquire. It was stated that so far, none of the land owners had actually sold their land to the government.

Smog Cloud With Deadly Poison Lifts

INMAN, S. C. (AP)—A smog cloud filled with deadly chemical fumes began to lift here Friday afternoon lessening danger to residents in the vicinity of a chemical plant destroyed by fire and a series of explosions.

About 30 families were evacuated temporarily from the area before noon after Col. F. E. Hankinson, Spartanburg County Civil Defense director, was advised that the fumes were dangerous.

The dense and highly toxic chemical fumes hugged the ground in an overcast throughout the night and most of the day. About 2:30 p.m. the weather began to clear and the smog began to lift. For a while it drifted to the northwest then began to move to the southwest which took it over lightly populated rural areas.

Officials warned that the danger from the cloud was not over. Dr. John McInerney of the Deering Milliken Research Corp. at Spartanburg, 15 miles to the east, said the chemical content of the fumes was changing and now contained phosphorous di-chloride, a poison. He said inhaling it could cause anything from nausea to death.

Two workers of the California Chemical Co. plant were diluting methyl parathion with a DDT solution used to spray cotton crops Thursday night when the first explosion occurred. The men escaped unhurt, but the plant, a division of Standard Oil Co., was destroyed by fire and a series of colorful explosions.

Firemen reported that several chemical fires were controlled shortly after noon, leaving the dense cloud the major problem. Hankinson ordered the evacuation after County Health Director Dr. J. C. Hedded recommended the action. "According to the best information available, this smog can be deadly in sufficient quantities," Hankinson said.

The plant is situated in an industrial section near a railroad track, away from the main part of the town, whose 4,000 people live in Inman and Inman Mills. The two communities flank U. S. 176.

Lock And Dam Discussion Set In Area Issue

Whether to build a lock and dam above or below Jonesville will provide the meat of a panel discussion Saturday night between three Louisiana lawmakers and the president of the Tensas Levee Board.

Though simply stated above, the Catahoula Lake issue has called by some, the most controversial in this part of the state. Speaking in favor of construction below Jonesville, in a televised panel show at 9 p.m. over Alexandria station KALB-TV, will be Sen. J. C. Gilbert, Sicily Island, and W. C. Brown, of Harrisonburg, president of the levee board.

For the construction above Jonesville will be Rep. Bob Munson, Rapides Parish, and Rep. Marion Roy.

Congressman To Address Mayor's Meet

Calvin D. Johnson, a former member of Congress, of Upper Marlboro, Md., has accepted an invitation to address the Southern conference of municipal officials at Memphis, August 11.

Mayor W. L. Howard, temporary conference chairman, made the announcement here yesterday.

A former member of the Illinois legislature, Johnson will speak at noon Friday, August 11, at the Peabody Hotel in Memphis, Howard explained.

"Mr. Johnson was recommended to us by several members of Congress," Howard said. "We are happy that he accepted the invitation."

Johnson sponsored a bill in Illinois called "no work, no eat," legislation dealing with welfare.

With Johnson speaking at Friday noon, Joseph Mitchell, city manager of Newburgh, N.Y., will address the convention at noon Saturday, ending the two-day session.

Over 200 municipal officials have made reservations to attend the organizational meeting, according to Street Commissioner W. D. H. Rodriguez. Officials in every municipality in the South have been invited to attend.

Two Agents Commended By Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today commended two government agents for the part they played in subduing two hijackers of a Continental Airlines plane in El Paso, Tex., Thursday. Kennedy praised the "courageous and level-headed manner" in which FBI Agent Francis Crosby and Border Patrolman Leonard Gilman handled the hijacking "under the most difficult circumstances."

The two men disarmed and captured Leon Bearden, 38, and his son Cody, 16, aboard the plane after nine hours of tension-filled dickering and maneuvering. Kennedy's letters were sent to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and to Immigration Commissioner J. M. Swing. He also commended the FBI generally for its key role in the capture.

Gilman, 43, got a grinning, backslapping welcome from Swing and fellow workers at immigration headquarters here this morning.

He couldn't shake hands. His right hand was in a cast because a bone was broken by the blow he landed on the elder Bearden's weapon at hand without any regard for human life at all."

Attendance At FHA Fete Listed

JONESVILLE (Special) — Attending a Block FHA picnic on Fort Hill in Harrisonburg were Mary Jo McLawhlin, Mary Keeth, Pud Rayl, Alberta McClure, Sue Forman, Linda Wurster, Carolyn McClure, Lois Jackson.

Joyce Jackson, Candy Daggett, Judy Taylor, Bonnie Bradford, Robbie McMillin, Joann Trisler, Patsy Book, Vickie Weaver, June White, Janice White, Carolyn Armstrong, Mary Harris, Peggy Harris, Johnnie Carol Keeth, Kathy Winegeart and Mrs. T. B. White.

Block advisors attending were Mrs. Lodi Pierce and Mrs. Alice Winegeart.

The little finger on that hand had been broken earlier in a baseball game with his son.

When a reporter asked whether he had come to Washington to get a medal, Gilman smiled and replied "You don't give people a medal for doing their job." He came only to give a complete report of the incident to Swing, Gilman said.

Swing said he was exceedingly proud "of the demonstration by one of my young officers not only for the bravery shown but more particularly the calmness and judgment" in handling Bearden and his son, who otherwise, Swing said, "would probably have landed on the elder Bearden's weapon at hand without any regard for human life at all."

Installation Of Facilities For Area Is Reported

JONESVILLE (Special)—C. L. Preston, district manager of Louisiana Power and Light, said additional electric service facilities affecting Jonesville, Ferriday and Vidalia and the Concordia Electric Cooperative, have been installed at the company's electric distribution center north of Ferriday.

Preston said a second 13,800-volt electric distribution feeder has been tied into the Panola center to serve Ferriday.

He said a loop feed is now provided for Ferriday, and additional 13,800-volt back-up feed is provided Ferriday from LP&L's Ridgecrest electric distribution center between Ferriday and Vidalia.

Also installed at the same time was a 34,500-voltage regulator in the transmission circuit to the town of Jonesville, Vidalia and the Concordia Electric Cooperative. Preston explained that the new regulator will improve conditions in the transmission system, and assist in balancing the electric power loads for the areas mentioned.

A voltage regulator also was installed in the new 13,800-volt feeder for Ferriday.

Construction work on this project, Preston said, was accomplished by LP&L's station crew headed by Dewey Sison.
